JONES COMES TO HEALY'S DEFENSE
IN NICOLAY CASE

Circuit Attorney, in Questioning Witnesses, Tries to Place Blame for Shortage in Police Relief Fund Upon Others Than the Accused Secretary.

PROSECUTOR ANGRY,
REBUKED BY JUDGE

"Healy! Healy! Healy!" He Shouts at "Ex-Policeman Cliffe, "Why Don't You Tell About Nicolay?" Then Court Interposes.

Circuit Attorney Jones, in rushing repeatedly to the defense of John M. Healy Monday during the trial of John F. Nicolay on a charge of aiding Healy to embezzle the funds of the Police Relief Association, met reproaches from Judge Hitchcock and embarrassments at the hands of his witnesses, who repeatedly laid the blame for the $13,000 shortage on Healy, the former secretary.

One of these witnesses was George Beaud, formerly a special officer and member of the Entertainment Committee for the benefit of 1909, who was dismissed from the force because he accepted $30 expense money during the month of Nicolay.

"Beats of the Show," Beaud spoke of Healy as "the boss of the whole show," and said that he supposed Healy took the money every night from the show because he saw the secretary with a valise, presumably containing money. Jones indignantly asked Beaud, why, as a committeeman, he didn't try to find out what was in the valise, and Judge Hitchcock interrupted.

"Don't argue with this witness," he said. "He has answered your questions in plain language. That is enough."

At every stage of the trial, Jones devoted his efforts at concealment to the defense of Healy, who is being defended by Jephtha D. Howe, Jones' brother-in-law, and by former Judge C. Orrick Bipp.

Jones had lost his temper several times before, once because a witness persisted in saying that Healy had charge of the box office during the entertainment of 1908 at Forest Park Highlands.

"There you go again," Jones shouted, jumping to his feet and shaking a paper at the witness. "Healy, Healy, Healy, Healy. You're always harping on Healy. Why don't you tell this jury about Nicolay?"

"Well," said Walter J. Cliffe, the witness, "my impression is that Healy was in the box office, and I can't say it was Nicolay when I think that."

Objection is Sustained.

"Now, isn't it a fact that Healy had nothing to do with the box office during the entertainment of 1908?" Jones demanded.

"It's my impression that he had charge of it," Cliffe repeated.

"Did you see him in the box office?" "I think I did."

"Did you see him there every evening of the two weeks?"

"I can't be positive about that."

Jones, in his opening speech, had told the jury Nicolay had sole charge of the box office, and he pressed the point because he regarded it as important. But at this juncture Thomas B. Estep, Nicolay's lawyer, interposed.

"I object to this form of questioning," he said. "The Circuit Attorney is cross-examining."

"The objection is sustained," said Judge Hitchcock quickly. "Mr. Jones, you ought to know better than to cross-examine your own witness."

Jones flushed at the rebuff, and resumed his questioning of Cliffe.

After Cliffe had been cross-examined, Jones on direct questioning wanted to know whether the Forest Park Highlands management didn't supply the Entertainment Committee with meals and drinks in 1908. He said it did.

"But in 1909 the victuals were not good enough for you and you went to the Buckingham Club, didn't you?" Jones asked.

"There was nothing the matter with the victuals," said Cliffe. "But we did go to the Buckingham."

"Do you know who paid the bill?" "No."

Questioned by Judge.

Judge Hitchcock interrupted to ask Jones whether he was trying to show that the bill at the Buckingham was paid by Forest Park Highlands. He said he was.

"I do not understand," said Judge Hitchcock, "how it was the custom for these meals to be supplied, and if the Forest Park Highlands management paid for them, you can produce a charge of embezzlement on Continued on Page 2, Column 2."

MEXICAN REBELS HOLD
AMERICAN WOMEN AND CHILDREN PRISONERS

Relatives of Lower California Stockade Captives Wire Knox, Asking Warship, and He Orders Investigation.

By Associated Press.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 11.—Mexican filibusters are holding a number of American women and children captives in a stockade at Alamo, Lower California, it became known here today. The prisoners are said to be at the mercy of their captors, and to have suffered insults and indignities. Protests have been made to Secretary of State Knox, and Senator Perkins, chairman of the Senate Committee on Naval Affairs has been advised.

Among those held captives are G. Raffi, his wife and five children of San Diego. The names of the others have not been disclosed. The appeal to Secretary of State Knox, made by Henry Savage, a relative of this city, a relative of Mrs. Raffi.

News of the condition of the prisoners at Alamo was received at Ensenada last week, Savage said today, and was reported to George B. Schumaker, United States Consul, as well as to Gov. Celerio Vega of Lower California. Savage charged that Vega did not send relief, and Schumaker, he says, ignored the complaint.

Wires to Washington.

Fearing for the welfare of the prisoners in the hands of the rebels, who are said to be commanded by Simon Berthold, Savage wired Secretary Knox Sunday afternoon as follows:

WOMAN LEAVES
$17 ON MAIL BOX

Girl Finds the Purse, Tells the Police and Owner Recovers It.

Mrs. F. A. Gooding of 614 Michigan avenue, had a lot of worry over the temporary loss of a mesh purse, containing $17, the front door key and other articles.

Mrs. Gooding hung the bag up on a mail box, but she forgot about it, and it was gone.

Mrs. Gooding, and her sister, Miss Elizabeth Barnett, were returning from a shopping trip downtown Monday afternoon, and were loaded with parcels. Mrs. Gooding had a letter to mail. She stopped at the mail box at Spring and Bond streets, and laid some parcels on it, and hung her mesh purse on it while she was finding the letter and mailing it. Then she picked up the parcels, but left the purse hanging, and she and her sister went on to 324 Botanical avenue to visit another sister, Mrs. E. B. Baling.

It was an hour and a half later, when they were starting home, that they missed the purse. They went back to the mail box. It was not there. Somebody else had been there to mail a letter.

It was learned that Hester Vickroy, 12 Botanical, residing with her parents at 12 Botanical and Spring avenues, found the purse when she went to mail a letter a few minutes after it was left. She took it home to her mother, who notified the police. Mrs. Gooding called at the Vickroy home Tuesday morning and the purse was given to her.

HIS SLIDE FOR HOME ON FACE SAVES THIEF

Detected While Looting Store, He Tears Up Bricks, With Nose to Escape.

When Mrs. Herman Menckey, 917 North Thirteenth street, returned to her home late Monday afternoon she found a young man in the dining room going through the drawers of her chest. The robber saw her at the same time. He ran out on the front porch.

In leaping down the four steps leading to the sidewalk he slipped, and landing on his face, slid along the bricks. When he jumped to his feet again he ran on down the street. Mrs. Menckey says that his face was covered with blood. Investigation in the house fails to find anything missing.

MEASLES BAR AMBASSADOR

Senor Inclan Cannot Occupy His Official Residence.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—A stranger in a strange land, the new Mexican Ambassador to the United States, Senor Manuel de Zamora Inclan, is barred from his official residence here, Measles in the family of former Ambassador Senor de la Barra have prevented his successor from occupying the embassy. The three children of the de la Barra family are down with the disease but convalescent. Senor Zamora Inclan, president today and later will be formally received at the White House by President Taft.

Southern Co. Will Ask Steam Railroad Grant From the New Assembly.

MAYOR WILL SIGN BILL

Companion Measure to Permit Locomotives in Gratiot and Eighth Streets.

H. D. Mephram, one of the promoters of the Southern Illinois Traction Co., told a Post-Dispatch reporter Tuesday that he and his associates would introduce in the new Municipal Assembly a bill for a steam railroad franchise over the lower deck of the free bridge. The bill was introduced in the old Assembly as the companion bill of the Southern Illinois Traction franchise for an electric railway. Mayor Krelsmann has indicated his purpose of signing the electric franchise bill, which passed the late Assembly.

If the second bill is passed by the new Assembly and signed by the Mayor, Mephram and his associates, one of whom is Jephtha D. Howe, will have possession of both decks of the bridge. Mephram said Tuesday he was negotiating traffic arrangements with railroads and that his proposition was advancing so rapidly that it would be necessary to get his steam railroad bill reintroduced early in the session.

The reason the bill was not pushed in the last Assembly, Mephram said, was because it was referred by Chairman Russell of the House of Delegates Railroad Committee to the Board of Public Improvements for a report. The board reported that the trackage proposed was not sufficient for the delivery of coal in St. Louis.

Railroad on Streets.

The bill asked for a steam railroad franchise on Eighth, Ninth and Tenth streets, between Chestnut and Chouteau avenues. Mephram declared that if the bill was passed, the steam railroad would haul coal into St. Louis and deliver it without making any arbitrary bridge charge.

While the railroad franchise was pending one of the principal objections was the fact that it gave the company the use of Gratiot street, the only continuous thoroughfare between Chouteau avenue and the Mill Creek Valley. Frank H. Gerhart and others contended that if tracks were laid in Gratiot street to connect with the bridge, they should be owned by the city, to insure a free approach from the West.

The franchise which the company asks for is the use of Gratiot street, from Seventh to Tenth streets, and of Eighth, Ninth and Tenth streets, between Gratiot street and Chouteau avenue from the West.

Frank H. Gerhart, one of the principal supporters of the free bridge, told a Post-Dispatch reporter that the friends of the Free Bridge will oppose the passage of this bill, as they opposed the grant on the upper deck of the structure.

Mayor Defends Bill.

S. L. Moser, representing the People's League, called on Mayor Krelsmann Tuesday and presented the league's resolutions opposing the Southern Illinois franchise.

After reading the resolutions, Mayor Krelsmann said to Moser:

"I wish you people could take a broader view of this matter. I have carefully looked into this franchise with a view of finding any valid objection to it. I have failed to find one. I have also had city Counselor Walther advise whether the fact that the Southern Illinois Traction Co. as an Illinois corporation would invalidate the franchise. He has informed me that it would not."

Mayor Krelsmann made a statement to reporters Monday evening intimating that he would sign the Southern Illinois franchise bill some time Tuesday. He said he was preparing a lengthy statement of his reasons for signing the bill.

The Mayor said there had been much misapprehension regarding the bill. He said it did not give the Southern Illinois Traction Co. a monopoly over the bridge, but would permit any other company to use the tracks. He said there had been objection to the 50-year franchise, but that long term franchises were necessary to induce people to invest money in public utility enterprises.

One of the strong objections to the free bridge bond issue, the Mayor said, was the apprehension that nobody would use the bridge. He said the Southern Traction Co. franchise would meet that objection, and prove that the bridge would be used.

He said the city administration was charged with the duty of building the free bridge and would be able to protect it.

Gov. Foss' Son to Wed.

WIDOW, NEARLY 80,
TO MARRY FOURTH

He Is Handsome, Stalwart and Gets $3 a Day; She Has Fortune of $1,000,000.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 11.—Mrs. Elizabeth Heasley Maxon Smith Baumgardner, Louisville's wealthiest widow, will, this afternoon, add Nemeyer to her name when she becomes the bride in Pittsburgh of Carl Nemeyer, a storekeeper gaudier in the Government service at Louisville.

Interest attaches to the marriage because Nemeyer is only 31 years old, while his blushing bride, although she admits she is 49, is believed to have passed the biblical three score and ten years ago and to be verging on 80. However, she is tripping to the altar for this, her fourth marriage, as blithely as any girl of 30.

Mrs. Smith will be married in Pittsburgh this afternoon at the residence of her nephew, Elmer E. Heasley, 630 Hays street.

Mrs. Smith came to Louisville not long after the war as the wife of Marshall Maxon. On her death she married K. W. Smith, an insurance man, who accumulated a fortune. He died four years ago and Mrs. Smith inherited an estate estimated at $1,000,000.

In June, 1909, she surprised Louisville by marrying in Washington Cysses Baumgardner, manager of a defunct lunch. Baumgardner was 40 while Mrs. Smith was past 70. In the spring of 1910 Mrs. Baumgardner gave up her husband and set Detective James Kinnearney to watch him.

Kinnearney conducted the case, with such skill that one evening he was able to lead Mrs. Baumgardner and some witnesses to a room in which, on breaking the door, they found Baumgardner and another woman. After an exciting scene Mrs. Baumgardner departed with ample proof and soon obtained a divorce.

She generously gave Baumgardner $25,000 and an automobile, but he lost money, at that, as she had made all arrangements to deed to him a $60,000 farm, and the transaction was to have been closed the very day after he was caught.

Detective Kinnearney won the complete confidence of Mrs. Baumgardner by his work and he has been her close friend and adviser ever since. It is said that for his services he has received $25,000, one of the largest fees on record for a detective.

Having succeeded in getting her rid of one husband, Kinnearney put her in the way of getting another, for he introduced her to Carl Nemeyer, aged 31, a heart and good looking. He is the son of Charles Nemeyer, editor of the Louisville Courier.

Nemeyer was an ardent suitor. Through the week he was stationed at a distillery at Dant, Ky., gauging for the Government at $5 per day, but on Saturday he would come to Louisville and hasten to Mrs. Smith's home on Third avenue, where he would urge her to become Mrs. Nemeyer. The wooing was conducted between Saturday and Monday of each week.

RELIGION BREAKS
MATCH WITH SON OF AMBASSADOR

Miss Cecilia May and Robert Low Bacon Had Planned an Early Home Wedding.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Family differences have broken off the engagement, announced a month ago, between Miss Cecilia May, beautiful young daughter of Col. Henry May, and Robert Low Bacon, son of the Ambassador to France. It was understood the ceremony was to take place in May, or perhaps not until Cardinal Gibbons, who was to perform the ceremony, had granted a dispensation to Miss May, a Catholic, to wed Bacon, a Protestant.

Many arrangements had been completed for the wedding at the home of the bride's parents, 1325 K street. Col. May said:

"Col. and Mrs. Henry May broke the engagement because Bacon declined to make the promises required by the Roman Catholic Church in mixed marriages."

Sympathy for Couple.

The Colonel wished it known that Miss May and not Bacon ended the engagement. It is understood the promises young Bacon would not make would have bound him to have all the children of the marriage reared as Catholics. Promises to that effect are always demanded by the church.

Considerable sympathy is felt for the young couple, who were greatly attached to each other. Much surprise is felt that the match was allowed to progress so far before differences over religious questions were discovered.

It is freely stated among friends of young Bacon that Ambassador Bacon strongly objected to his son marrying a Catholic, and that it was to prevent that rather than to be present at the wedding that the Ambassador and Mrs. Bacon hurried here from France when the engagement was announced by Col. and Mrs. May, March 10.

When Ambassador Bacon and Mrs. Bacon arrived their son's fiancée was among the friends who greeted them. The Ambassador and Mrs. Bacon returned to Paris several days ago.

While the Bacons were here several family conferences with the Mays took place. The feeling between the families was said not to be cordial. It is now believed the match was broken off at that time.

The Mays are a wealthy Baltimore family. Col. May is a relative of the late Mrs. William C. Whitney of New York. Miss Cecilia is a chum of Miss Helen Taft. She was one of the bridesmaids of Countess Alexandra von Bernstorff, daughter of the German Ambassador, at her wedding to Count Pourtales, March 27. Robert Low Bacon Jr. is 23. He is maintaining strict silence.

HYDE, CONVICTED OF SWOPE MURDER,
GETS A NEW TRIAL

Judge Ferriss of Supreme Court in Opinion Reversing and Remanding Case Criticizes Admission of Testimony of Other Crimes and Revoking of Bond During Trial.

FAILURE TO LET DEFENSE
ANALYZE VISCERA CITED

Alleged Inconsistency in Murder Motive and Admission of Nurses' Hearsay Evidence Other Reasons Given for Rehearing for Defendant, Facing Life Term.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., April 11.—Dr. B. Clark Hyde was granted a new trial by the action of the Supreme Court today in reversing and remanding the case in which he was found guilty of the murder of Col. Thomas H. Swope and sentenced to life imprisonment.

The decision upholds the contention of the defense that improper testimony concerning other offenses with which Hyde was accused got into the record and that suddenly ordering that the defendant's bond be canceled and that he be sent to jail was improper and unjustified. The Supreme Court, however, orders that he be held without bond for his retrial.

Judge Ferriss, in reading the opinion, said:

"Doubtless the evidence showing the age of Col. Swope, about 82; his infirm condition during the previous year; the condition of his internal organs as revealed by the autopsy; and the symptoms of his last sickness, if that were all, justify the conclusion that he died from senile debility or uremic poisoning and would fail to establish the corpus delicti."

Jury to Pass on Conflict.

"In passing upon this question we may not properly consider the strong array of experts for the defense, whose testimony completely negates the poison theory. This conflict between equally credited witnesses is a question solely for the jury."

"If we were to lay aside the testimony of one witness for the State, Dr. Vaughn, we would find it difficult to reach a satisfactory conclusion that there is a sufficient proof to make a prima facie case of death by poison."

"According to the authorities, the symptoms as detailed in the evidence are not clearly and unmistakably those of strychnine poison nor of cyanide. The opinions of experts of the State indicate this as well. The Court took the position that if death had been due to cyanide or strychnine poisoning, that death would have occurred at once in a man of Swope's advanced age."

Poison Theory Questioned.

"He lived 10 hours, the Court says. The theory of the State was that Hyde had administered both cyanide and strychnine in the same capsule and that their counteracting effect delayed death."

"This theory was not established by the proof. Dr. Haines said he would assume that such would be the effect. Dr. Vaughn said his reading would indicate such effect as all experiments on animals. The experts of the defense, however, thought that the effects would be in hasty death."

Admission of Testimony About Other Crimes Is Called Unfair

"It was not necessary that so vital a matter as the amount of strychnine in Col. Swope's liver should depend upon the results obtained by a single chemist in the privacy of his laboratory. This comment is given emphasis by the fact that experts for the defendant were refused any part of the organs of Col. Swope, which they requested be given to them for the purpose of making tests for poison."

Settle Rule of Law Invoked.

"The question of the admission of testimony of other crimes alleged to have been committed by defendant is a serious one and of first importance in this case. The testimony admitted concerning other crimes imputed to the defendant, makes up the major part of the record and without regard to its probative value, is of a character to powerfully impress a jury against the defendant."

In objecting to this testimony, the defense invoked the settled rule that upon the trial of the defendant upon a specific charge, evidence of other crimes committed by him is not admissible. The rule firmly established in English and American jurisprudence had been recognized and adhered to by this Court in numerous cases. One crime does not prove another nor tend to prove another unless there is such a relation between them that proof of one tends to prove the other.

Nature of Jury's Instructions.

"Unless such a relation exists it is illegal and manifestly unfair to require a man who is charged with a specific crime in the indictment to prepare a defense against other crimes that the State may attempt to prove against him, but which are not charged in the indictment. In the present case the jury was instructed that the evidence of other transactions should be considered by them as bearing only on the question of intent and motive."

Motive as Applied to Murder Cases Defined by the Court

"We are then to consider whether the evidence introduced by the State of alleged extraneous crimes, as tending to prove that the defendant had a motive to kill Col. Swope and that he intended to kill him, was properly received as coming within the above exceptions."

Motive in murder is the impulse of purpose that induces the murderer to kill his victim. Intent is the purpose to make the means adopted effective. The State introduced evidence over the defendant's objections concerning the death of Col. Hinton, the death of Christian Swope, the alleged attempt to poison Margaret Swope, the alleged inoculation of Margaret Swope with Hunt, so as to increase the share of Mrs. Hyde in such residuary estate by one-tenth of the legacy to Col. Hunt.

"If, as the State claims, the defendant's motives for killing Col. Swope were to prevent him from making a new will and to displace him as executor of a new will to be made by Col. Swope, such motives are inconsistent and antagonistic. And in no sense could the one throw any light upon the other. In such conflict of motives there could be no relation between the two crimes."

"The other motive ascribed to defendant, namely, a desire to secure Col. Hunt's legacy to the residuary estate is not inconsistent with the alleged motive for killing Col. Swope. If the defendant knew that Col. Hunt was a legatee under the existing will, a desire on his part to add this legacy to the residuary estate provided in that will and of which his wife would receive one-tenth, would afford a motive to kill Col. Hunt, consistent with his alleged motive for killing Col. Swope. Both motives would contemplate that there was not to be a new will there is, however, no evidence in the record that the defendant knew at the time of Hunt's death that he was a legatee in the will of Col. Swope."

Doubts Mistake in Capsules.

"There is no proof that the defendant gave Margaret any poison and no proof that poison beyond a trace was found in the contents of her stomach, ejected within two hours after the alleged giving of her capsules. The court said the point raised by the State that Hyde had placed a poison tablet in the box of capsules for Margaret and that this was given to Margaret by mistake by the nurse did not merit serious consideration."

The grounds for reversal, in epitome, were:

That the testimony concerning other alleged crimes should not have been given to the jury.

That the hypothetical questions to experts were improper.

That evidence was improperly admitted concerning a conference of nurses and Dr. Twyman not in presence of defendant.

That the nurses were permitted to get their suspicions before the jury.

That the testimony of Dr. Stewart relative to his visit to defendant's office to take away the typhoid culture tubes and a recital of his suspicions was improperly admitted.

That the court should have excluded all hearsay evidence of capsules of nurses and others tending to bring out their suspicions about the character of Hyde.

That the State failed to prove that Hyde killed Col. Hunt or Margaret Swope or that Col. Swope did not die from senile decay or uremic poisoning, as contended by Hyde.

That the order revoking Hyde's bond after the trial had begun was improper.

That the bond should not have been revoked upon the losing of the grand jury notes.

Trial Cost $200,000.

A jury on May 12, 1910, found Dr. Hyde guilty of the murder of Col. Thomas H. Swope, Kansas City millionaire philanthropist, and imposed a life term in the penitentiary as his punishment. This verdict was reached after a most remarkable trial costing $200,000 and continuing for six weeks, was the basis of the appeal which now is decided.

Eleven indictments were returned against Dr. Hyde March 5, 1910, following an inquiry caused by a series of mysterious illnesses and deaths in the Swope family. Hyde's wife was a niece of Col. Swope, whose fortune was estimated at $10,000,000 and under the terms of his will, the shares of each heir who died reverted to the estate to be red-vided among the survivors. It was said that at the time of his death Col. Swope was planning to change his will to give a $1,500,000 park to Kansas City.

It was brought out at the trial that Dr. Hyde had provided capsules for Col. Swope which he said were to aid his digestion. Nurse Ketter, who was in attendance on Col. Swope, declared that Dr. Hyde went with her to Col. Swope's room after breakfast on the morning of Oct. 3 and gave her one of the capsules, of pinkish hue, and that this was administered to the patient.

According to the nurse, Swope read the papers after he had taken the portion and that a few moments later he was seized with a convulsion which caused his death. Dr. Hyde pronounced that he had been killed by apoplexy.

The evidence at the trial showed that on Nov. 8, following the death of Col. Swope, Dr. Hyde purchased typhoid and diphtheria bacilli, and that on Dec. 1 Margaret Swope became ill with typhoid. Two days later Christman Swope had typhoid and the day after that Hyde bought more typhoid. Christman Swope had a convulsion on Dec. 5 and the following day he had another and died.

HYDE STOLID AS NEWS REACHES HIM

"Thank You, Gentlemen" His Only Comment on Granting of New Trial.

By Associated Press. KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 11.—When news of the court's decision reached the county jail, Dr. Hyde was taking his usual morning promenade up and down the narrow hall in front of his cell on the third floor.

His lawyer, who had been on hand since 8 o'clock, shouted the verdict up to the prisoner:

"You have been granted a new trial," was the word that greeted him.

Hyde stopped a moment in his walk, smiled and said merely:

"Thank you, gentlemen."

The news traveled quickly from tier to tier and as the prisoners, men and women on the different floors heard it, cheering that had started in Hyde's corridor spread throughout the entire prison. For fully five minutes the demonstration continued.

Mrs. Hyde had been waiting anxiously this morning in the office of John A. Cleary, one of her attorneys. Ten minutes after the word had come from Jefferson City she appeared at the jail. She was admitted immediately to the cellroom and rushing to that occupied by her husband, embraced and kissed him.

Soon husband and wife were joined by the physician's attorneys, Frank Walsh and Cleary, and an earnest conference ensued.

Later both Dr. and Mrs. Hyde said they gave out a statement. Dr. Hyde said: "Of course I am disappointed that my case was not reversed outright. I shall, however, struggle on with unbroken spirit, confident that I will convince not only the officers of the law but the world of my complete innocence of the terrible charges laid against me."

"I look forward with serene confidence to my trial in my next trial. I have learned that a man can stand anything with a wife like mine believing in him and sustaining him."

Mrs. Hyde's statement follows:

"I was sure that the Supreme Court would free my husband. The law is a mystery to me. I was at Clark's side during every hour of the time he was charged with committing these offenses against those who were near and dear to me. I know the utter falsity of the charges against him. I would suffer again with him, were it to me that a thousand deaths, rather than to have a hand in the attempt to destroy the life and character of an innocent man such as my husband. Of course, I will hope on and on. I know the law will give my husband back to me, not because I love him and he loves me, but because he is innocent."

Virgil Conkling, County Prosecutor, was keenly disappointed over the verdict, and declined absolutely to talk about it.

that. What has that to do with this charge?"

"I expect to show that the man in the districts knew nothing about this."

"Do you deny that it was the custom?" Yates asked.

"Custom's got nothing to do with it," Jones retorted.

"Sure it wasn't Nicolay."

Cliffe said he was under the impression that the Forest Park Highlands management was to buy $800 worth of tickets, and that this money was to be distributed among the members of the Entertainment Committee for expenses.

"Where did you get that impression?" Jones demanded.

"I think Healy told me."

"Are you positive?"

"No, I'm not sure."

"Couldn't it have been Nicolay?"

"No, I'm pretty sure it was Healy. He did all the talking."

"Did you hear who received this?"

"No, I didn't."

"Did you hear it was Nicolay?"

"No, I'm pretty sure it wasn't Nicolay."

Asks for a Recess.

"Now, isn't it a fact that, really had nothing to do with this money?"

"Your memory is getting rather bad, isn't it?" Jones asked sarcastically.

"I don't think it is," said Cliffe, unruffled.

"Well, that was the last benefit you ended, wasn't it?" Jones snapped.

"Did you ask any evening what had been taken in during the day?"

"No, I did not."

"Who appointed you a member of the Entertainment Committee, anyway?"

"President Noonan," said Cliffe.

Jones asked for a brief recess.

Jones' Checks Rejected.

Earlier in the morning Jones had struck another snag in examining Cliffe. He was dwelling on the fact that the Board of Trustees, of which Cliffe was a member, accepted Healy's reports without investigation, and his questioning amounted practically to a cross-examination. Estep objected on the ground that this had no connection with the charge against Nicolay.

"I confess I fall to see any connection," said Judge Hitchcock.

Jones jumped to his feet as if angry.

PLANS TO KEEP HEALY OFF STAGE

HE reported plan to grant immunity to John M. Healy for turning state's evidence may be frustrated. J. Thomas B. Estep, attorney for John J. Nicolay, carries a point he intends to make. He will try to keep Healy off the witness stand, he announced Tuesday on the ground that a participant in a crime cannot testify against another participant.

Estep pointed out that the Supreme Court recently held, in a case where a man and a woman were jointly charged, that the woman could not testify against the man, and Estep will cite this case in support of his contention. The first count in the indictment against Nicolay sets forth that Healy embezzled money, the second that Nicolay advised him to take it; and Estep holds that this peculiar form makes Healy the principal in the offense.

In the bench case, participants testified against one another.

"I propose to show that these men were practically covering up Healy's thefts," he said.

"What evidence have you introduced," asked Judge Hitchcock "that there were any thefts?"

"Surely," said Jones, with reddening cheeks. "The Circuit Attorney may exercise some discretion as to the order in which he introduces testimony. I don't want to get the cart before the horse."

Judge suggests question.

Estep smiled broadly, and Judge Hitchcock directed Jones to go ahead. A little later Jones wanted to know whether the Entertainment Committee authorized any expenditure for the relief benefit except $300 a week to the summer garden.

"Suppose," said Judge Hitchcock, "you lay a foundation by asking what Jones put that question, and Cliffe said the committee's powers were not specified in writing."

Programs for 1908.

No explanation was given for the recess. After it, Jones resumed his interrogation of Cliffe.

"Did you know money was paid in 1908 on the programs?"

"No," said Cliffe, "I didn't know that."

Report Shown to Witnesses.

"Did you ever hear of $35 paid in for the 1908 program?"

"No, I didn't."

"But you signed the report that year?"

"I suppose so."

"As a matter of fact, you left these things to the chairman of the committee or the secretary of the association, didn't you?"

"Sometimes, not always."

"Do you know what became of $300 the Forest Park Highlands management paid for tickets in 1908?"

"No."

"Do you know whom they were bought from?"

"No."

"Well, since your memory is so short, I'll refresh it for you. Here is the report for that year."

Jones handed Cliffe the report and he said he remembered signing it.

Says He Got Expense Money.

Cliffe said he got $35 expense money in 1908 and in 1909 as a member of the Entertainment Committee for the benefit, but that he supposed the Forest Park Highlands management was supplying it. He said Nicolay handed it to him. Estep objected to this as bearing on the charge against Nicolay.

"On the contrary," said Judge Hitchcock, "it seems to be the only evidence introduced so far which does bear on the charge."

Cliffe's book showing that he turned over $111 to Healy in August, 1908, was introduced in evidence, and he then identified the expert's report showing that Healy entered only $5 of the money. Again Estep objected.

"The objection is overruled," said Judge Hitchcock. "If the witness gave Healy more money than Healy accounted for, the inference is that Healy kept it or spent it."

Two programs for the police benefit show, one for 1908, the other for 1909, were shown to Cliffe and he said he had nothing to do with preparing these and didn't know who had charge of that work.

Money to "Boost" Show.

On cross-examination Cliffe said he had been a member of the association for 15 years and of the Executive Committee for three years. He said he had been a member of the Entertainment Committee for two, possibly three, years. For seven or eight years the annual entertainments had been held at Forest Park Highlands, and from the beginning, the witness said, it had been customary to allow the Entertainment Committee some money for expenses. This was agreed on by the Executive Committee without opposition, because it was the business of the committee to "boost" the show.

In 1907 the members were allowed $20, in 1908 $25, and in 1909 $30.

The witness recalled that Healy gave out the money in 1907.

Cliffe said that in October or November, 1909, President Nicolay asked for a report on the entertainment and behind no report could be made until he caught up with his work.

It was general talk among members of the committee, Cliffe testified, that Healy's books were in bad shape, but there was no suspicion of anything wrong. The committee was waiting to make its report, but Healy asked for time to post his books. When this was reported to President Nicolay, Cliffe said, the committee was instructed to get after Healy and insist on his books being straightened up at once, so a report could be made inside of thirty days.

Denounces Healy.

Healy was characterized as the "chief devil" of the $13,000 police relief fund shortage when the trial of Nicolay began Monday afternoon.

"If anyone testified that Nicolay stole money," said Estep, "it will be Johnnie Healy, the chief devil of this whole business, or some other hound like him."

Circuit Attorney Jones was almost as strong in his denunciation of Healy, who is being defended by Jones' brother-in-law, Jephtha D. Howe, and by former Judge C. Orrick Bishop. The report that Healy's only punishment will be the denunciation heaped upon him during the trials of his companions, sprang up soon after Howe entered the case, a year ago.

Says They Were Spenders.

Jones spoke of Healy, Nicolay, John J. Noonan and John T. Dunigan, in his opening address, as "the four Johns," and declared they were the ring leaders in looting the relief fund during the benefit entertainment at Forest Park Highlands in August, 1909. They spent money like millionaires, he said, and Healy gave the others $5 and $10 hats and other presents. Each day of the two weeks they appropriated $20 each, he declared.

Jones went into a painstaking explanation of the organization of the relief association and its sources of income, which Estep characterized as "ridiculous and tiresome." But Jones had Thomas J. Craddock, who succeeded Healy as secretary, go through all these details again.

Imported Easter Hats for Women

Our Third Floor Trimmed Millinery department is marvelously attractive this week, and the special $15.00 to $25.00 groups, modeled after the most recent importations will be strongly in evidence tomorrow.

Our Third Floor—the Great Fashion Floor of the Store, Again Invites You. In Quantity, in Distinction, in Price Attractiveness, Our Assortments Are Unrivalled

Easter Week Costume Exhibit

Price Range, $20.00 to $250.00

One can readily believe that every correct costume for street and for semi-dress occasions is represented in such a price range. There are simple well tailored serges, street frocks and all degrees of elegance up to the magnificent hand-embroidered Marquise costumes.

Dresses of Foulard are particularly pleasing, also the beautiful soft gauzy chiffons and the dainty handmade French lingerie also winning every woman's approval.

We show peasant sleeves and collarless effects.

New Lingerie and Marquise Dresses

Price Range, $16.50 to $80.00

Many of these lovely frocks come direct from Paris, while others embody the most pleasing features of clever imported models. Dresses distinctive in their design, coloring and trimming.

Exquisite embroideries are used, also French knots, raised French handwork and laces.

Both Dutch and high-neck styles are shown, the peasant sleeves and high-waist line are both distinctive features of many of the models.

Tailored Suits at $25.00

The woman who has planned to spend just $25.00 for a Tailored Spring Suit will save herself much worry by coming direct to our Third Floor.

Greater efforts have been made to provide high quality, strictly fashionable suits at this price than ever before.

The styles are the most recent and the models used the most pleasing that have been brought out this season.

At this price ($25.00) we have a full range of sizes for mature women, for small women and for misses.

Easter Tailored Suits

Price Range, $35.00 to $100.00

This week's showing of Tailored Suits is the most complete, most finished one, St. Louis has ever known. The Semi-dress and severely Tailored Suits are both abundantly shown. Smart Tailored Costumes in tan and clear gray shades; navy and black suits; lustrous satin suits in black. It is not a wonderful range to choose from.

These are shown in extreme sizes—41 to 49.

Women's Charming Easter Suits

Price Range, $10.00 to $100.00

The price moderation is a pronounced feature of our Easter Coat Exhibit.

Serges, Satins, Tweeds, Shepherd Checks, Rajah Silk, Pongee Silk and Linen are represented. Long roll revers and wide sailor collars are the favorites; heavy braids give a distinctive character to many of the latest models.

Beside the staple navy blues and blacks, we have an excellent showing of the soft shades so much in vogue.

Tweeds and Mixtures, $17.50 to $45

Fine Serge Coats, $10.00 to $35

Black Satin Coats, $15.00 to $100

Pongee Silk Coats, $18.50 to $30

MRS. MONCRIEF TELLS HER FRIENDS

Texas Woman Finds Help at First, But Soon Gets Results From Cardul.

Mrs. Ethel Moncrief, of this place, says: "I suffered with a complaint peculiar to women, and, although I called in the doctors, they failed. Then, I began with Cardul, the woman's tonic."

"From the first dose, I could feel results, and, in a short time, I was relieved of all my dreadful suffering. My friends were surprised to see the results I obtained from Cardul. Jones built up my system and I can't help telling my friends about this wonderful medicine."

"I do not want to be without Cardul in my house as long as I can obtain it. It is a true relief for womanly troubles. I can't praise it too highly."—Belton, Tex.

The best way to cure womanly troubles, pains, headache, backache, etc., is to help nature by taking Cardul.

Cardul is beneficial for woman's pains, but also for womanly ailments, lack of energy, loss of appetite, nervousness, etc. It is a true tonic. It helps to build up the constitution. It brings strength to the system.

Fifty years' success in relieving women and pains of other sick and ailing women, is a good reason why Cardul should help you too. Try it.

Write to: Ladies' Advisory Dept., Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn., for Special Instructions and 64-page book, "Home Treatment for Women," sent in plain wrapper, on request.

MORPHINE RELIEVED PAIN—THE GREAT KIDNEY REMEDY RESTORES TO HEALTH.

For the past few years I suffered greatly from what three physicians called neuralgia of the stomach. Three doctors treated me without any success and I called in a fourth doctor, who pronounced my disease gall stones. I suffered intense pain and the only relief the doctor could give me was by injections of morphine. I was so completely discouraged that I had almost given up hope when a neighbor told me about Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. I decided to try it and began its use at once and after taking nine bottles I was completely cured, not having a spell of sickness in over two years.

I have so much confidence in Swamp-Root that I never fail to recommend it to my friends who may have kidney trouble of any kind. I feel certain that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root saved my life, why should it not do likewise to others who take it in time.

You are at liberty to use this testimony at any time.

Yours truly,
MRS. ELLA HENRY,

LETTER TO DR. KILMER & CO., B

THOUSANDS ENTER COMPETITION FOR ST. LOUIS SLOGAN

Seventy-Five Hundred Post-Dispatch Readers Have Sent in an Average of Four Suggestions Each for the $250 Prize Phrase Desired to Advertise City's Advantages—32 Organizations Invited by Ad Men to Meet at the Mercantile Club Friday.

Two Hundred and Fifty Dollars for a Phrase!

THE Post-Dispatch will pay $250 for the best advertising slogan concerning St. Louis, submitted before May 1. The phrase should embody in attractive, catchy form, one great advantage which St. Louis enjoys over other cities, or preferably a combination of advantages which distinguishes St. Louis. The slogan should be brief and crisp, but comprehensive. It should appeal to the imagination. It should be both striking and pleasing. It should have the quality to attract attention and cling to the memory. It should roll off easily from the tongue. It should not exceed 10 words. Obviously it should include "St. Louis."

"To the front," is a good motto and has served its purpose, but it suggests no St. Louis advantage to the outsider, seeking a home or a location for an industrial or commercial enterprise. We are not looking for another motto. We want an advertising phrase—a phrase which may be used far and wide to attract favorable attention to St. Louis.

All are invited to compete. Only employees of the Post-Dispatch are ineligible. We want wholesale competition and as many slogan suggestions as the public can supply. In the multitude of suggestions there may be one first-class phrase which will be recognized universally as a happy hit. The universal hit is what we want. Think of the advantages of St. Louis as a residence and business city. Try to embody them in a happy combination of words, the force and fitness of which will strike everyone who reads it. Put it into as many forms as you wish. Then send your best suggestions to the Post-Dispatch. Address: Phrase Editor. A competent jury, whose names will be announced later, will select the best slogan submitted.

By noon, Tuesday, the entries in the Post-Dispatch $250 prize contest for a phrase to signify the advantages of St. Louis had passed the 7500 mark. If there are 150,000 homes in the city, as has been estimated, there has come one entry for every 20 homes.

The number of slogans suggested, however, is far greater than the total of letters received. Some readers of the Post-Dispatch have sent in as many as 80 each. The Phrase Editor believes that the average per letter is four, which would give 30,000 ideas already sent in.

The Post-Dispatch has published only a few of these slogans, and these have been picked out almost at random, merely to show the wide range of conceptions of what would constitute an ideal advertising phrase.

The following organizations have been invited by the St. Louis Sales Managers' Association to meet at the Mercantile Club on Friday to cooperate in a plan to get suggestions for the Post-Dispatch contest:

Retail Druggists' Association, Master Plumbers' Association, Southwestern Mercantile Association, Traffic Club, North St. Louis Business Men's Association, Franklin Avenue Merchants' Association, Million Population Club, League of Electric Interests, Citizens' Industrial Association.

West End Business Men's Association, Aero Club, Wholesale Grocers' Association, "Carondelet Business Men's Association, Furniture Board of Trade, Building Industries Association, Real Estate Exchange, Retail Jewelers' Association, Latin-American and Foreign Trade Association.

BOHN ON STAND REPEATS GARDNER'S PERJURY LESSON

Witness Declares Father of Youth Whose Auto Killed Williams Rehearsed Him.

TOLD HIM WHAT TO SAY

Sent Him Into Grand Jury Room to Swear He Was Not in Machine.

After testifying that he attended a conference at the home of Harry B. Gardner the Monday night after Jesse Williams was run down and killed, March 31, 1910, by an automobile driven by Leo Gardner, and that Harry B. Gardner had instructed him and other members of the party to deny that they were in the automobile, George P. Bohn on cross-examination Tuesday at the trial of Harry B. Gardner for subornation of perjury, admitted that he was not in St. Louis on that night.

"On the Monday night after Williams was killed you went to De Soto, Mo., with Mrs. Harry B. Gardner to meet Leo Gardner, didn't you?" asked Arthur Sager, attorney for Gardner.

"Now that you refresh my memory, I believe I did," said Bohn. "Yes, I did."

"Then you were not in St. Louis on this night when you say Gardner told you to testify that you knew nothing of the accident?"

"No, I made a mistake when I said I was."

In his direct testimony Bohn with much detail had told of the conference and the prompting of the witnesses by Gardner. Bohn told his story as follows:

Gardner told him he had had grand jury experience. He seated Bohn with his back to the street, and sat facing him. In formal manner he asked him his name and address and where he was the night of March 31. Bohn answered that he was at home.

Put Questions to Him.

"How do you know you were at home?" asked Gardner.

"Because I remember being there."

"Don't be so positive," cautioned Gardner. "It isn't good to be too positive."

"What shall I say then?"

"Say yes, but don't be too positive."

After conducting the direct examination, Gardner cross-examined him, asking him if he was not in a car on Olive street, if he was not with Leo Gardner and if he was not at Campbell's. To each question Bohn answered no.

Mrs. Cornelius, mother of one of the other boys in the automobile, and Mrs. Gardner, were present at the rehearsal. On the way to the Four Courts, when Bohn was to go before the grand jury, Gardner suggested an explanation of the broken crank on the machine. He advised Bohn to go into the grand jury room with a confident air and stick to the story that had been agreed upon.

The State's charge, as outlined to the jury by Assistant Circuit Attorney Ferris, is that Gardner, who was in Alabama at the time his son's auto killed Williams, hurried home and summoned to his home, 600 Raymond avenue, Bohn, George Cornelius and Ben Schaefer, who were in the auto, and instructed them what they should testify to before the grand jury.

IDENTITY OF 'WE' IN LORIMER CASE SAID TO BE KNOWN

Banker and Merchant Reported to Have Put Up the $100,000 to Elect Senator.

By Associated Press.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 11.—According to a story in circulation here today, the Helm committee is in possession of the names of the persons referred to as "we" in the alleged conversation between Clarence S. Funk and Edward Hines at the Union League Club, Chicago.

One of the persons is said to be the manager of a large department store. The other is said to be the president of a Chicago bank. According to Funk's testimony, Hines told him that "we" had put Lorimer over hurriedly and that it cost $100,000 which "we" are now trying to collect back from some of our friends.

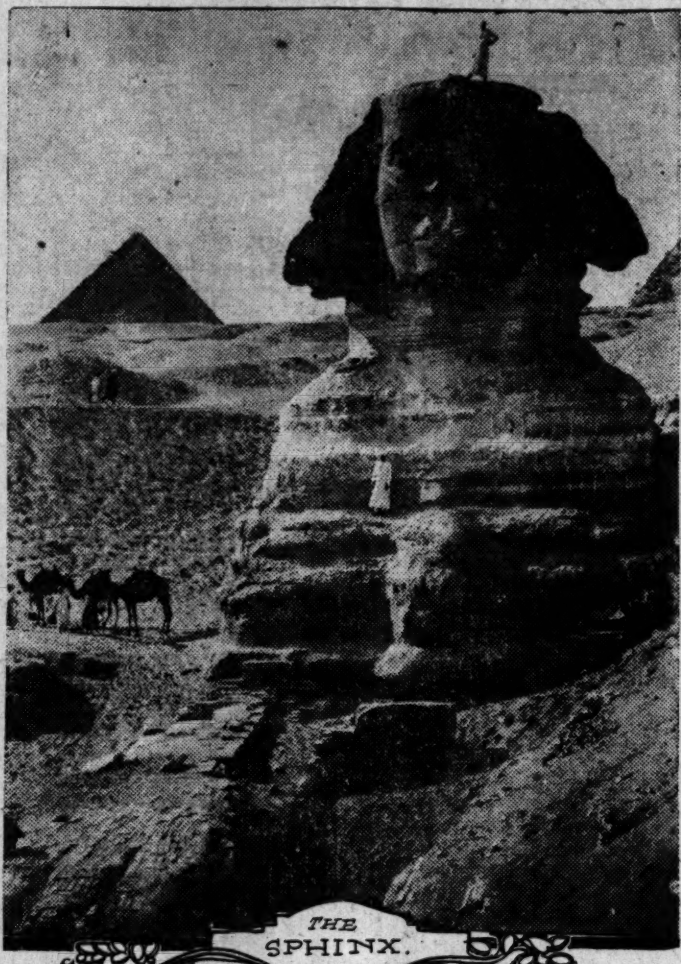

Chairman Helm, maintaining the secrecy that has characterized the procedure of his committee, refused to deny or affirm that the two persons referred to as "we" will be subpoenaed. One of them is said to be "out of the country."

This Prescription Knocks Rheumatism

The only logical treatment for rheumatism is through the blood. A prescription, which has recently proved wonderfully effective in hospital work is the following. Any druggist has the ingredients or will dutifully get them for you. Anyone can mix them. "One ounce compound syrup of Sarsaparilla; one ounce Toris compound; half pint first-class whiskey." These to be mixed and used in tablespoon doses before each meal and at bed time. This cured thousands here last winter. It relieves immediately.—ADV.

SPHINX A KING'S TOMB, SAVANTS HAVE DECIDED

Historic Puzzle of Many Centuries Solved by Archeologists Attached to the Harvard Egyptian Expedition.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
BOSTON, April 11.—"What is the Sphinx?" tourists and readers of history have asked for centuries. The question has been answered by the savants of the Harvard archeological expedition.

The Sphinx, these investigators have determined, was the tomb of Chephren, one of the Pharaohs, who ruled about 2500 B. C. Its sculptured head is modeled after that of the sovereign.

The collection of archeological objects gathered by the expedition was placed on exhibition yesterday at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. Prof. Reisner, who was in charge of the expedition, said:

"The final proof that the Sphinx temple was the tomb of Chephren has been delivered. Exactly those characteristics found in the Sphinx were found in the statues of Mycerinus, which we dug up. The Sphinx is nothing but the body of a lion with the head of the King rearing at the time it was built. The great Sphinx is the guardian of the sacred precincts of the second pyramid. This head is the portrait of Chephren, the King who built the second pyramid and whose artists carved the guardian Sphinx out of a knob of natural rock."

The Sphinx has often been examined by archeologists, but the question of its meaning and purpose has heretofore proved as perplexing as was the question which the legends of antiquity represent it as having propounded to wayfarers.

"What is the animal which first walks on four legs, then on two legs and then on three legs?" was the question which, according to mythology, the Sphinx put to all who passed by. Failing to answer it, they were devoured. When Edipus, the first to divine the reply, answered the riddle with the word "man," the Sphinx relapsed into stony silence which was never again broken.

Testimony showed that the defendant had been stenographer for Taylor, who is married and has a family, before her marriage.

She testified that she had to continue working for some time after that because her husband had only $2 when he married her, and expensive tastes. Later, she said, she stopped working, but began again, to help pay the family expenses, about four years ago. She said the presents from Taylor were merely remembrances sent while he was traveling. Taylor will be called as a witness in the case.

NEW OLEOMARGARINE ESCAPES HEAVY TAX
CHICAGO, April 11.—A clever ruse adopted by manufacturers and dealers in oleomargarine has cost the Government $300,000 in Chicago alone in the last year, according to a statement made by Samuel M. Fitch, collector of Internal Revenue.

Fitch declared that through misrepresentation the public has been buying a lower grade oleomargarine, upon which there is no tax than the colored product on which the manufacturer must pay a tax of 10 cents a pound.

"Last year we issued 705 licenses in Chicago, and thus far this year only 200," he said. "This shows rather plainly that something is wrong. A new product with a natural tint is being made on which there is only 1/2 of a cent tax."

BARTLETT NOW AMERICAN
Master of Peary Ship Has Citizenship Papers.

NEW YORK, April 11.—Capt. Robert Bartlett, master of the Peary Arctic ship Roosevelt, became an American citizen today. Capt. Bartlett was a New Foundlander and accompanied Admiral Peary on his journey to the North Pole. With the exception of Peary, the master of the Roosevelt has been nearer to the "top of the world" than any white man.

Capt. Bartlett took out citizenship papers some time ago, and makes his home in Brooklyn when here. He is organizing an expedition to try for the South Pole.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 11.—When an ordinance providing that the name of Joseph Raimo, the murdered policeman, be left on the payroll of the Police Department for six months at half pay reached the lower house last night, Alderman C. S. Bramble of the Sixth Ward, in which Raimo had lived, offered an amendment providing for full pay instead of half pay.

Bramble's amendment was adopted both houses. Raimo was slain from ambush by members of the Black Hand.

DOCTOR SEEKS DIVORCE

Avows Defendant Smoked Cigarettes (She Says She Lighted Them for Him) and Took Presents.

That his wife worked as a stenographer for Walter Taylor, president of the Meiller Drug Co., and accepted presents from him, one of them being a box of cigarettes, was one of the grounds upon which divorce was asked by Dr. Louis C. Herchenroeder Tuesday. The plaintiff also alleged that his wife smoked one of the cigarettes.

Louise Kate Herchenroeder, the defendant, admitted in her testimony in Judge Fisher's court Tuesday that she received the presents, even the cigarettes, but declared that they were all of small value, and that the cigarettes were intended for and were smoked by her husband.

Lighted Husband's Cigarettes.
She said that she lighted one of them for him, as she had often lighted his pipe and cigars, but denied that she smoked it very long.

The defendant produced the other presents in court. They consisted of a gun-metal necklace, a gold belt pin, a beaded purse, a shopper's bag, a gold pin and several toilet articles.

Louise Kate Herchenroeder, the defendant, admitted in her testimony in Judge Fisher's court Tuesday that she received the presents, even the cigarettes, but declared that they were all of small value, and that the cigarettes were intended for and were smoked by her husband.

Dr. Herchenroeder lives at the Hotel Beers, Mrs. Herchenroeder lives at her former home, 2304 Park avenue. They were married in 1908 and have no children.

Testimony showed that the defendant had been stenographer for Taylor, who is married and has a family, before her marriage.

JUDGE THROWS OUT THE DIEHR CASE AT TRIAL

Man Was Accused of Setting Up Gambling Device to Swindle Two Men.

Judge McQuillin, Tuesday afternoon, ordered a jury to return a verdict of acquittal in the case of August Diehr.

Following this action, the case against his son, Charles, was nolle prossed. August Diehr and his son, Charles A. Diehr, of 1123 North Euclid avenue, accused of setting up a gambling device to swindle Dr. O. S. Miller, an osteopath, and Martin Fellhauer, a saloonkeeper, were arraigned in Judge McQuillin's court Tuesday.

On motion of their attorney, John A. Gernez, a severance was taken and the State chose to try August Diehr first. The work of impaneling a jury was begun at 11 a. m.

Dr. Miller and Fellhauer were both in court to testify. The other witness is Detective McKenna, who arrested the elder Diehr at the Jefferson Hotel two months ago, after he had exhibited a faro layout to Dr. Miller.

Fellhauer, according to Dr. Miller's statement had lost money in a faro game in New York.

He said that Diehr visited him in his office in the Frisco Building and said that, knowing Miller and Fellhauer were friends, he would show Miller a system by which Fellhauer might return to New York and recoup his losses. Miller seemed to acquiesce in the plan and made an appointment to meet Diehr at the Jefferson. There Diehr showed him a faro layout and demonstrated his system of dealing the game.

It was found that Diehr's son had been trying to induce magazine readers to invest in a faro game. One method used to gain publicity for the scheme was the insertion of extra pages in a widely circulated magazine. One of these pages contained a picture of the younger Diehr and the other his expert advice as to the possibilities of gambling as an easy road to fortune.

Dr. Miller testified that August Diehr represented to him that he could put him into communication with Charles A. Denton, a New York gambling expert, who could show Miller and Fellhauer how to beat the faro game. Denton, it later developed, was really the younger Diehr.

Explained Signals.
At the Jefferson, Miller said, August Diehr introduced him to Denton, who produced a faro layout and handed Miller and Diehr stacks of chips to represent money. He said the gambling syndicate in New York owed him $50,000, and that he was going to get even with it by showing players how to win. He stood behind a table and explained certain finger signals, which he made to them.

He told them that when they went to New York he or another faro dealer would give them these signals, and they would know just how to bet to win.

August T. Vitrey, a jurymen, arose and asked: "Did these men get any money from anybody in St. Louis?"

"That question will be answered at the proper time, as the evidence develops," said Assistant Circuit Attorney Shaner, and the juror sat down.

Miller testified that no money was wagered on the demonstration at the Jefferson Hotel.

Fellhauer a Witness.
Martin Fellhauer, who said that August Diehr formerly worked for him as a bartender. He said that he introduced Dr. Miller to Diehr, in the hope of winning back money which he had lost to Diehr at faro. He was not permitted to tell the amount of the loss which he was trying to recoup.

The State rested after Attorney Gernez for the defense announced that he would file a motion to dismiss because of lack of evidence.

Double Track for Illinois Central.
NEW ORLEANS, La., April 11.—Double tracks from New Orleans to Chicago, one of the largest interlocking plants in the South at Harahan and nearly $1,000,000 worth of steel cars are among the improvements promised for the Illinois Central Railroad by Charles H. Markham, president, in an address before the Progressive Union here.

IOWA EFFORT TO PICK SENATOR IS RENEWED

Colorado Legislators Cast Four Ballots Without Breaking Deadlock.

DES MOINES, Ia., April 11.—The joint ballot on Senator by the Iowa Legislature today resulted as follows: Deemer, 57; Kenyon, 62; Curtis, 4; Porter (Dem.), 5; absent or not voting, 4; necessary to elect, 78.

The Legislature adopted a motion to reconvene this afternoon to resume the balloting for Senator.

Combinations Fail to Elect Colorado Senator.

DENVER, Colo., April 11.—Following their announced program of last night, the anti-Speer Democrats in the Legislature today concentrated their vote for United States Senator. On the first ballot of the day strength was thrown to former Gov. Alva Adams, who received 24 votes.

The Republicans also concentrated their strength on Joel P. Valle. First ballot—Democrats: Adams, 41; Speer, 28; O'Donnell, 1; Ward, 1; Maupin, 1; Martin, 1. Republicans—Valle, 23. Necessary for choice, 51.

MAN SHORT SURRENDERS
CHICAGO, April 11.—John J. Daley, head of the wholesale stamp department of the Chicago Postoffice, who is accused of an $500 shortage, walked into the Federal Building and gave himself up. He was taken to the county jail. A week ago he disappeared just before the finding of the shortage in his department. Daley protests his innocence.

"I don't even know why I left town," he said. "I had heard rumors of a shortage in my department and knew that inspectors were checking up the accounts. I was worrying a good deal and I simply left the city without thinking or reasoning what the result would be."

Obstinate Spreading Eczema Quickly Cured

Mrs. Wm. C. Wood, Newark, N. J., writes:

"Resinol Ointment cured an obstinate case of spreading Eczema on my little ten-year-old boy's leg, after various other salves had signally failed. The trouble had existed for six months, and nothing seemed to do any good until we procured a jar of Resinol, which quickly cured him. It has now become a household remedy with us. We also have Resinol Soap in daily use by the children, and their skin, health and complexion are perfect."

Resinol Ointment can be positively relied on to give instant relief and quickly cure the torturing skin diseases of infancy and childhood. For eczema, nettle rash, chafing, discharging pimples and itching eruptions of all kinds, it is a prompt and sure remedy. Sold by all druggists.

GRAND-LEADER

Stix, Baer & Fuller D. G. Co.

Most of the Charm of These Lately-Arrived Tailor-Made Suits, Dresses and Coats for Easter, Lies in Their Tailoring and the Display of Good Taste Which Distinguishes Each—

Were it simply a matter of cloth and labor cost, the difference between the garments we show and the usual styles would still be marked—but the talent of an artist-selector is displayed in every line of their tailoring—in every detail of their fashioning, from cut of collar or sleeve to the last detail of trimming.

It is this which makes the Stix, Baer & Fuller outer-garments for women and young women, so very much different from the ordinary, and this feature has never been more marked than it is today throughout these collections which we have brought from the East from which you may make your pre-Easter selections.

An Extraordinary Group of Women's and Misses' Smartly-Tailored Suits at $19.75 and $24.75—

Some of new worsteds, some of plain and pencil-striped serges, and of h and finished mannish cloths, with scarcely visible stripes in the weave. Some Suits which owe their charm to the simplicity of tailoring, others to the attractive adaptation of the sailor collar style motif. Some very tastefully trimmed Suits, Jacket Suits and Short Eton Suits of gray, tan, blue, black and mixtures.

Some of which we have taken from higher-priced lines, and throughout which all sizes for women and misses are included, from 14, 16 and 18 year-olds and 32 to 53 inch bust measurement, $19.75 and $24.75.

A Large Collection of Unusual Suits at $29.75

Some of them would be excellent were they priced $35 and $39.75—of worsted, of plain and hairline serges; some strictly tailored, others trimmed with bands of various widths, and with satin facings. All sizes for women and young women in this collection. Colors: Blue, gray, tan and black. Special, $29.75.

New Coats and Wraps for Women Which Show Fashion's Latest Whims

From that saucy little English Topcoat (as one woman expressed it), to the dreamy cloud-wrap of chiffon, our collections of Coats now express the fullest word of spring and summer Coat fashions.

Here are Coats of satins, moires, of polo cloth, of serges, mannish mixtures, worsteds, pongees and Rajah silks—and each at its price deserving of comment, even in that respect. $14.75, $29.75 and up to $125.

Women's Black Satin Coats, $15.75

Black Satin of a quality which one will at once recognize as dependable, is the material we had the makers use for these coats, modeled according to styles we chose. One with a large shawl collar, set off with bands of braid; another with a square sailor collar, and third, with a plain notched coat collar. Sizes from 32 to 46 inch bust measurement, $15.75.

We are showing exceptionally large stocks of Children's and Misses' Suits, Coats and Dresses purchased recently in New York with this pre-Easter week and all its demands on mothers of girls in mind.—The Girls' and Children's Store—Third Floor.

Easter Millinery

And a word to those who have not yet selected their Easter hats—Our millinery service has never before been taxed so heavily.

We want to wait upon every woman carefully, and give her as much time as she wishes.

But to help us do it, please come tomorrow, or Thursday, if possible, and as early in the day as you can find it convenient.

Many new Hats which have just arrived will be taken away in short order, and so it's doubly worth while to be prompt.

Women's and Misses' Undermuslins, 98c Although Intended to Be $1.50

Several hundred pretty new undergarments for women and misses. Dainty Gowns, Petticoats, Princess Slips, Combinations, Drawers and Corset Covers, of sheer nainsook and cambric prettily trimmed with choice lace, nainsook embroidery, tucks and beading; splendidly made and cut generously full.

They would represent splendid garments at the price intended for their selling, $1.50—but for Wednesday they will be priced at 98c.

Children's Three-quarter-length

Reefers, of pongee, Paccard cloth and linen; box style; double breasted; with notched collar. Ages 2 to 5 years, and the regular $2 qualities, priced Wednesday at $1.59.

The Club Sale of Sewing Machines

Membership Is Rapidly Filling

We held our first club sale of sewing machines two years ago, and any one of the one hundred women who were members of that club will tell you that the best time to buy a sewing machine is when this store holds a club sale.

In the club which is now forming, a 1912 model of the Standard Rotary Sewing Machine is offered.

If you have ever made an exhaustive study of sewing machines, you are aware of the fact that this machine has a most perfect mechanism—one that is not equaled in any other machine.

Standard Rotary sews much faster with greater ease than any other machine because the shuttle gathers momentum as the sewing continues.

The thread does not break when running backwards, nor does the increase of speed change the tension.

The Club Is Rapidly Filling. First payment on joining is $2—thereafter $1 a week until the price, $37.50, is fully paid.

Conservative estimate of the real value of this machine is $45—complete set of attachments—limited guarantee goes with each machine.

Needles for all makes of machines at 14c dozen.

(Basement—Main Building.)

Women's Jaunty Easter Apparel Underpriced

We are very exacting in demanding certain specifications in our Women's and Misses' Apparel for the Basement Section—a reason for the pronounced success of this department. But in some instances better-than-the-usual good suits come to us and so sell for those low Basement prices.

An Eastern maker delivered to us big quantities of garments which he had agreed to send some time ago. We naturally demanded, and received, a substantial discount, and in the prices below the full benefit of the transaction is seen to be yours.

Women's Suits for $12.50

We have never shown better Suits at the price of $12.50 than the garments included in this lot. The color range and the styles are extremely varied—

They are made of hard-finished worsteds and serges, and the skirts are in the newest gored style, with tailored belt of self-material. Extraordinary values at $12.50.

Meningitis Infection Feared.
PUEBLO, Colo., April 11.—Through an autopsy held it was discovered that Apvose, a member of a party of 22 Greeks bound for Portland, Ore., who died on a Missouri Pacific Railroad train, was a victim of spinal meningitis. Two other members of the party are quarantined and it is feared the whole party may have been infected.

Missouri Society Has Banquet.
NEW YORK, April 11.—Two hundred members of the Missouri Society of New York had as guests at their annual dinner last night the presidents of 10 other state societies and Dr. Neal MacPhatter of the Canadian Club. Ronald R. Conklin was elected president of the Missouri Society.

Butter Price High in 1910.
ELGIN, Ill., April 11.—Butter was higher in 1910 than in any other year since 1882, in spite of the fact that the value of the product in the Elgin dairy district was more than $2,000,000 above the value for 1909, and the output showed an increase of more than 6,000,000 pounds. The average price for 1910 was 23.3 cents per pound.

B. M. L. HAS OWN SLOGAN; IT IS: WE CAN DO ANYTHING

Its Circular With the Modest Boast Cites the Many Things It Has Done.

PUSHED THE WORLD'S FAIR

Obtained the First $5,000,000 Raised for the Project—Built the Coliseum.

The Business Men's League has a slogan: "We can Do Anything." It is used by William F. Twelvetyn Saunders, manager and secretary of the league, in an attractively printed pamphlet just issued to show some of the many things which the league has accomplished for its members and for St. Louis.

Here are some of the things the league has done, as set forth in the pamphlet: Originated the plan of the World's Fair, at the suggestion of David R. Francis, and obtained the first $5,000,000 subscribed to the exposition. Brought the McKinley electric lines into St. Louis.

Induced the Legislature to establish and appropriate money for a commission to develop Missouri un-navigable streams into sources of electric power.

Built the Coliseum, and subscribed for 70 per cent of its common stock. Built the First Regiment Armory. Organized the St. Louis Conventions Bureau.

Made it possible to bring the Monitor Amphitrite to St. Louis for the Naval Reserves.

Prevailed on the city to cover downtown granite streets with asphalt to deaden the noise. Made St. Louis the first city in the United States to secure the promise of aviation, managed the International balloon races and organized the Aero Club of St. Louis.

Got the Government to establish pneumatic tube service for quick handling of the mails.

Got Government Contracts. Induced the Government to establish in St. Louis purchasing depots for army, Indian and Panama canal supplies.

Defeated the proposed corporation tax bill in the Missouri Legislature.

The circular also calls attention to what the League has accomplished through its traffic, industrial, publicity, information and legal bureaus.

TERMINAL ASSOCIATION OFFICERS RE-ELECTED

Members of Finance and Executive Committees Named by Directors.

The annual meeting of stockholders of the Terminal Railroad Association for the election of 16 directors was held Monday. Vinodger, secretary and auditor; Julius S. Walsh Jr., assistant secretary; Fred C. Daab, treasurer.

The following directors were elected to represent the proprietary lines of the Terminal: A. A. Allen, M. K. & T. Railway; F. H. Britton, Cotton Belt; C. W. Galloway, Baltimore & Ohio; C. S. Clarke, Missouri Pacific; C. R. Gray, Frisco; George E. Evans, Louisville & Nashville; C. H. Middleton, Iron Mountain; Henry Miller, Wabash; B. McKen, Vandalia; T. C. Powell, Southern; George H. Ross, Chicago & Alton; W. L. Park, Illinois Central; F. O. Melcher, Rock Island; C. E. Schaff, Big Four; Frank E. Ward, Burlington, and W. S. McChesney Jr., Terminal Railroad Association.

The Finance Committee selected was: George H. Ross, G. E. Evans, W. L. Park and Julius S. Walsh. Executive Committee: C. E. Schaff, T. C. Powell, Henry Miller, C. H. Middleton, A. A. Allen, B. McKen, C. R. Gray and W. S. McChesney Jr., chairman and ex-officio member.

FINED FOR STEALING TO PAY HIS BROTHER

Former Employee of Jewelry Company Pleads Guilty to Misappropriations.

Joseph Carl Morefield of 3509 Cambridge avenue, Maplewood, formerly associate manager of the Loftis Bros. Jewelry Co., pleaded guilty in Judge McQuillin's court Tuesday to misappropriating three checks for $6 each. He also admitted taking a diamond ring and a brooch worth $200, but asserted that there were due to him as bonuses from the firm. The checks had been mailed in to the company by Maud Halley of 910 North King's highway as payment on jewelry.

Morefield said he took the checks to pay money he had borrowed from his brother. Judge McQuillin questioned him. He said he was 29 years old, lived with his parents and had never been in trouble before. The Court imposed a fine of $100 and costs amounting to $125.

ALL ways good and good always, are "Bucks" stoves and ranges.

Texas to Be Target Again. WASHINGTON, April 11.—The San Marcos, formerly the battleship Texas, will be the target for another ordnance test on April 15, which probably will consign her to the junk heap. The monitor Tallahassee will bombard the old ship with 12-inch guns.

A Page Brimful of Interesting News Concerning Our New Easter Apparel

A Seasonable List of Remarkable Saving Opportunities That Will Induce You to Make a Hurry-Up Trip to Barr's Wednesday

You Will Appreciate These Pre-Easter Reductions on High-Class Suits for Women and Misses

WE have spared no pains to make this a fashion event of the first magnitude, as well as a real bargain occasion. The beauty of the fabrics, the excellent workmanship, the exquisite symmetry and grace that distinguish every Suit shown, contribute to an Easter display that firmly intrenches Barr's in its position as fashion's chief source in St. Louis.

To accentuate the importance of this occasion we have selected several hundred of our finest, most fashionable new suits and marked them at clearance prices! Rather a radical and unprecedented act, but we have too many suits and prefer to cut prices before Easter (when you'll appreciate the bargains) rather than after Easter, when most women have already purchased. Here are the reductions.

$18.00 to $22.50 Suits at $14.50

Women's and Misses' Suits in about 20 different styles, made of imported tweeds, worsteds and French serges in navy, blue, black, tan and gray. CORNELL REFUSES TO DRAW A COLOR LINE

Petition of Coeds, Objecting to Negro Girls, Denied by President Schurman.

ITHACA, N. Y., April 11.—"At Cornell all university doors must remain open to all students irrespective of race or color or social standing or pecuniary condition."

This is the official answer of the University by President Jacob Gould Schurman to a petition by 26 coeds asking that the University bar negro students from Sage College.

There were two petitions, one protesting against the admission of negro girls, the other signed by 29 girls objecting to discrimination on the ground of color.

"The last colored woman student in Sage College," Dr. Schurman said, "writes that her years of residence in Sage College were the happiest of her life."

The race question came up when Rose Vassar of Lynchburg, Va., and Pauline Ray of Geneva, two negro girls, applied for rooms at Sage College.

RHEUMATISM CANNOT EXIST
In the human body if you will use Trunk's Prescription for Rheumatism and Gout. It is a scientific, and powerful, and in fact it is a pity and a shame to talk about rheumatism and gout, much less suffer with it, either inflammatory, muscular, sciatic or any other form of rheumatism. Trunk's Prescription for Rheumatism and Gout sells for $1.50 or six for $7.50. This prescription does not ruin the stomach, it does not depress the heart. Eat all the meat and good food you wish while taking Trunk's Prescription. It does not contain any mercury, salicylate of soda, oil of wintergreen or narcotics of any kind, but it absolutely and positively overcomes any kind of rheumatism or gout on earth. What more do you want? There is nothing just as good, and it is impossible to get something better. It is also an excellent liver medicine.

HERE'S PORTRAIT OF STRAUSS BUT NOT A "STRAUSS PORTRAIT"

Mexico Damaged by Earthquake. TUCSON, Ariz., April 11.—According to passengers arriving by train from the west coast of Mexico, the earthquake shock which occurred in the State of Sinaloa last Friday did considerable damage and injured a number of persons. In several towns the people are still sleeping in the plazas, fearing to return to their homes.

KRONBERG PAINTS LIFELIKE PICTURE OF J. C. STRAUSS

Photographer's Friends Declare Likeness Made by Brush Is Admirable.

Louis Kronberg, the Boston artist whose paintings have been on exhibition at the gallery of the Noonan-Kochan Co., made some sketches for the Post-Dispatch while here of types of St. Louis girls. These will appear soon in the Post-Dispatch.

Among other studies made by Kronberg in St. Louis was one of Julius C. Strauss, the photographer. This was made by the artist in appreciation of many courtesies shown him while here. Acquaintances of Strauss say it is a splendid likeness.

Kronberg's exhibit of his paintings, and pastel portraits in Chicago this week at the Reinhardt gallery. From there he will return to his home in Boston.

Kronberg was delighted with the interest taken in his exhibit in St. Louis. It was free to the public, and all the expenses were paid by the artist himself.

"An artist lives to make others happy," he said. "The greatest reward he gets for his work is to see the pleasure that others get from it. Of course there is a satisfaction in the execution of a work of art, but that is not to be compared to the joy that comes from the applause of those who recognize the achievement of the artist in his work."

Kronberg traveled one season with Richard Mansfield, sketching him as he appeared on the stage. He painted him as Cyrano, Baron Chevalier, Skylark and in other characters.

He made many paintings of ballet girls on the stage, the principal ones being "Dress Rehearsal," "The Vision" and "Getting Ready for the Dance." These are so full of the color and the spirit of the life behind the stage that they have been accepted by the critics of this country as great works of art. Some of his works hang in the Boston Art Museum and others have been bought by clubs in Boston and New York.

"WHAT IS CHRISTIAN SCIENCE? EDDY ASKS

Lawyer for Son of Church Founder Will Put Question Up to Court.

BOSTON, April 11.—An amendment which will probably bring the question of what Christian Science is squarely before the courts, is to be made to the papers in the suit brought in New Hampshire, by the son and adopted son of Mrs. Eddy against the executor of her will and officers of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Boston.

Former United States Senator William E. Chandler, chief counsel for the plaintiffs, today announced he will file an amendment attacking the validity of the residuary clause as "uncertain." Mr. Chandler said the ground to be taken would be that whereas Mrs. Eddy left her property for the promotion of the Christian Science religion no one knows exactly what the Christian Science religion is, so that unless this matter is determined by the courts the residuary clause is void because of uncertainty.

A hearing is expected next week.

SAYS SHE STOLE TO SHOW SHE WAS GOOD DETECTIVE

Mrs. Della Farley of 201 South Twenty-second street says she stole from Schaper Bros., 215 North Broadway, just to show that a house detective was needed and get the position. She delayed too long making the demonstration by returning the stolen goods and was arrested. The managers are skeptical about the motive and will ask Tuesday for a warrant.

Mrs. Farley, who is separated from her husband, has been working at the Schaper Bros. Broadway store since Thanksgiving as a saleswoman. She wanted to be house detective, but the management did not think one was needed. She understood, she says, to show them that one was needed. She stole bolts of cloth, laces, etc., and took the plunder to her room and piled it up nicely on a shelf, with slips of paper between each lot.

The management missed the goods and suspicion fell upon Mrs. Farley. Detectives Murphy and Quinn were called in. Accompanied by H. C. Gonter, the general manager, and W. H. Wisniewski, manager of the Broadway store, they went to Mrs. Farley's room. The stolen goods were found. They were taken to police headquarters and Mrs. Farley was arrested.

"Oh, pshaw, that's what I get for waiting," she said when the detectives told her she was under arrest. Then she explained that she had taken the stuff to demonstrate the need of a house detective. She was placed in the case of the matron pending the application for a warrant.

BOY TO GET WOODEN LEG

Court Scores Father Who Took It From Him.

NEW YORK, April 11.—"I think you're the meanest man in New York," said Magistrate Steinert to John Kelly, who had been summoned to court by his 20-year-old son, Vincent, whose wooden leg he had taken away. "I'll give you just an hour to return to your boy his wooden leg. If you don't—"

For three years Vincent has been trying to make a living by doing errands. Because he could not get a regular job, he said, his father took his leg from him.

JUSTICE BELL OUT $2 WHEN RIVAL GETS WEDDING FEE

Justice William B. Bell of East St. Louis had visions of a $2 bill Monday afternoon. Two young men, who did not give their names, visited his office and asked him if he could perform a marriage for a couple waiting on the sidewalk. The two young men then departed, saying they would go with the couple to the marriage license office.

They escorted Miss Gertrude Guyton and Eliza Burr of East Bonne Terre, Mo., to the Arcade Building, and stood on the outside while they got a license. Deputy License Clerk Leo G. Smith asked the couple if they were going to be married by a justice, and he volunteered to call up Justice E. P. Williams.

"I'll just send my stenographer over to get them," the Justice said. "Hold them until she gets there."

The stenographer went to the office and started away with the couple. The two young men who had engaged Justice Bell were too bashful to interfere. They followed Burr

THINGS A MOTHER OUGHT TO KNOW

Mothers whose children are weak and rundown, who do not gain flesh and strength, who lack the rosy cheeks, and bright eyes of healthy childhood should remember that the safest tonic and body builder to give them is Father John's Medicine because it is a pure and wholesome medicine free from alcohol or dangerous drugs. Thousands of mothers give it to their children whenever they become weakened or run-down.

SHAVE ON BIRTHDAY ONLY

Connecticut Man Also Celebrates With Haircut.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 11.—When the friends of Edward Lewis, one of the well-known characters of Stratford, a New Haven suburb, saw him this morning they realized that it was his birthday, for he had had a shave. Lewis does not believe in shaving as a general rule. Every birthday, however, he gets a fine, fresh shave and hair cut, and today, as for many years, he celebrated.

POST-DISPATCH
WANT AD BRINGS
REPLIES FROM 380

260 Call in Person, 49 Answer
by Mail and 71 by Telephone.

R. C. Turpin, sales manager for the Cudahy Packing Co., with an office in room 431 Pierce Building, knows from personal experience that it pays to advertise in the want ad columns of the Post-Dispatch.

He inserted in the Salesman Wanted of this paper Sunday, April 2, an advertisement for a salesman to sell a certain specialty to the retail and wholesale grocery trade. In response to that little ad 380 salesmen applied in person for the place. Replies by mail were received from 49 and there were 71 responses by telephone. The total number of answers was 380. The mail applications came from five states, although the ad made no special plea for out-of-town men. At the cost of 50 cents for the advertisement each answer cost the Cudahy Packing Co. only one-eighth of a cent. The Sunday want ad directory that day contained more than 700 want ads opportunities with wonderful possibilities in influencing the public to buy, sell, hire and exchange and a marvelous potentiality in adding to the bulk of mail carried in the shape of answers to the ads and from all points in the great Southwest.

SMOKE ORDINANCE
VIOLATORS ON LIST
FOR FOURTH TIME

Mulford's Cafe Again Named by Women's Organization for Abatement of Nuisance.

SIX PAY COURT COSTS

Two Cases Dismissed When Excuses Are Made to Judge
Calvin Miller.

Seventeen names have been added to the list of violators of the smoke ordinance. Two of these are old offenders previously reported, one as many as four times. On the list prepared by the Women's Organization for Smoke Abatement, from reports of its inspectors, and made public Tuesday, are the following names:
Buckingham Club (reported twice), King's highway and West Pine boulevard.
Young-Silverberg Dry Goods Co., Vandeventer and Finney avenues.
Hibernian Hall, 3619 Finney avenue.
Mulford's Cafe (reported four times), 369 North Sixth street.
Howard's Hall, Garrison avenue and Olive street.
Dinks Parish Laundry, 3128 Olive street.
Colchester and Devonshire Apartments, King's highway and Laclede avenue.
Polar Wave Ice and Fuel Co., Holmden and Cates avenues.
Polar Wave Ice and Fuel Co., Leonard and Easton avenues.
Apartments at 4343 Lindell boulevard. Store building and apartments, Page and Clarendon avenues.
Art glass shop, St. Vincent and Ohio avenues.
Memorial Home, Grand and Magnolia avenues.
Auto garage, Grand and Botanical avenues.
Apartments, 3127 Sheridan avenue.
Pechman Bros. Hotel, Olive street and Penfield avenue.
Scruggs Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Cook and Spring avenues. Copies of this list were sent to Col. James C. Butler and to the Civic League. Six accused as violators of the smoke ordinance who appeared for trial Friday afternoon in Judge Calvin Miller's court were left off on payment of costs. W. S. Park of the Union Electric company said that when the inspector for the abatement organization came along the apparatus broke down and a fire had to be built in a hurry in a new furnace.
C. J. Kuntz, manager of the West End apartment house, said that the janitor wanted to burn some rubbish until the smoke inspector was in the neighborhood. This case was dismissed. The six who escaped with costs were F. Michael, Julius C. Strauss, Charles Lindenschmidt, F. G. Glancy, Charles Gates and J. W. Bauer.

BOYCOTT AWARD OF
$232,340 SET ASIDE

Hatters Fight Begun in 1901
Will Be Further Continued
By Decision.

DANBURY, Conn., April 11.—The decision of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in New York reversing the award of $232,340 damages to the D. E. Lowe & Co. of this city against the United Hatters of North America will further extend a case which has been in the courts since 1903 and practically resolved itself into a contest between the American Anti-Boycott Association and the American Federation of Labor. The case dates back to 1901, when union hatters employed by D. E. Lowe & Co. struck. Suit was brought in 1903 against Martin Lawler and 239 other members of the Hatters' Union for $232,340 damages for alleged boycotting. Then the case was taken up by the American Anti-Boycott Association and carried to the Supreme Court of the United States as to whether the allegations constituted a violation of the Sherman anti-trust law. In February, 1908, the Supreme Court ruled that the alleged boycott constituted a violation of the law and in October, 1909, the trial began in the United States Circuit Court at Hartford and after a three months' hearing resulted in the verdict which was set aside today.

Choir to Give Recital.
The choir of Christ Church Cathedral will give its one hundred and sixth recital Thursday evening. Mercadante's "Seven Last Words of Our Savior" will be the special song feature of the entertainment. The soloists will be L. A. Cash, basso; Frank Talbot, tenor; George A. Brazier, tenor; Cornelius Reed, alto, and Albert Loeffel, soprano. H. H. Darby is the organist and choir-master.

Chinese Relief Totals $102,000.
NEW YORK, April 11.—It is announced that in response to further appeals from China another $25,000 has been sent to the missionary relief committee, this makes $102,000 which has been contributed by the people of the United States.

How To Disintegrate
Your Food In Five Minutes

Wonderful Tablets That Neutralize Foul Gases, Relieve Heartburn,
Dispel Stomach Misery and Render Digestion Perfect and Painless.

Indigestion, belching of gas, heartburn and stomach pains are not caused, as many seem to think, by poor assimilation of food, but are the result of impaired tissues which prevent quick disintegration of the food after it enters the stomach.
It is this hard, "lumpy" mass or "ball" of masticated food, rubbing and grating against the delicate tissues of the stomach, that causes the painful effects experienced by so many people after eating a heavy meal.
That disagreeable feeling of "fullness," tight and uncomfortable sensation, which sometimes leads to vomiting, is simply caused by the continued presence of the lumpy mass that must be disintegrated before relief can be obtained. Until that is done, and the impaired stomach tissues are healed, you can not reasonably expect relief from the many painful and dangerous forms of stomach trouble.
Compola Tablets are especially prepared to meet these conditions. They dissolve in 3 minutes, banish gas, heartburn and pain in 5 minutes, give you complete relief in 5 minutes. Compola acts in two ways: It soothes and strengthens the impaired tissues and attacks the food immediately, disintegrating the "lumpy" mass and speedily puts the stomach in condition naturally to disintegrate your food and render the digestive process perfect and painless.
Compola is guaranteed not to contain morphine, opium or any dangerous drug. Try Compola at our risk. Buy a 50c package of your drugist. If the very first tablet fails to give perfect relief in 5 minutes, we will refund your money. Senoret Chemical Co., St. Louis, Mo.

AUTO HURLED 30 FEET

An automobile driven by Earl Sarazan, a real estate man, was turned completely around and hurled 30 feet when it was struck by a Maryland car at Olive street and Spring avenue Monday night. Sarazan and Harry May, an auto demonstrator, were thrown beneath the wrecked machine, but escaped without serious injuries.

Sarazan told the police that he slowed up the auto as he approached the turn into Olive street from Spring avenue, but did not see the car coming. The automobile was damaged $500.

WHAT I WENT THROUGH

Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I cannot express what I went through before I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in such a nervous condition I could not keep still. My limbs were cold, I had creepy sensations, and I could not sleep nights. I was finally told by two physicians that I also had a tumor. I read one day of the wonderful cures made by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it, and it has made me a well woman. My neighbors and friends declare it had worked a miracle for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth its weight in gold for women suffering from these and kindred ailments. It will help others you may publish my letter."—Mrs. Nathan B. Groat, 51 N. Main Street, Natick, Mass.

Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through the various stages of ailments they endure as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

CITY MOURNS FOR TOM L. JOHNSON; HE DIED SMILING

Memory of Former Cleveland Mayor Honored by Leading Public Men.

WON FOR 3-CENT FARE

Interests, Long Unable to Defeat Him at Home, Beat Him in Wider Field.

CLEVELAND, O., April 11.—All Cleveland is today mourning the death of Tom L. Johnson, which occurred last night. A public memorial is planned and Mayor Baehr declared he would appoint a committee today to arrange for it. The body will lie in state tomorrow.

Scores of telegrams expressing condolence and paying tribute to the worth of Mr. Johnson have come from prominent men in all parts of the country, including Gov. Harmon, William J. Bryan, Senators Burton and Pomerene, Mayor Whitlock of Toledo, Mayor Gaynor of New York, and nearly every Congressman from Ohio.

Mr. Bryan said: "No man in the past generation did more effective work for the people than, Tom L. Johnson."

Mayor Gaynor. The country at large has lost one of its greatest assets—a man who fought for good government. Established 3-Cent Fare.

Johnson was 57 years old. He was for two terms a member of Congress and four times Mayor of Cleveland. As Mayor he won the unique distinction of establishing three-cent street car fares and proving this low rate compatible with profits and good service. He was a leading supporter of the Single Tax movement.

He called himself a "stormy petrel," and his public career was well described by the metaphor. Powerful interests opposed him, and while for years they were unable to defeat him in Cleveland, they balked his ambition for leadership in a wider sphere. His defeat for the governorship in 1903 was decisive, but he ruled Cleveland until his defeat by Mayor Baehr in 1906. His fortune, made in the traction business, disappeared, and his costly home was lost, though he retained a competence.

Three-cent fare was not permanently established in Cleveland until after Johnson was out of the Mayor's office, but the final victory, was the direct result of his efforts.

He Died Smiling.

During his last illness he was requested to write his autobiography in the birthday book of Miss Louise Graham, a friend of the family. Commenting on the paragraph he selected, Mr. Johnson said he hoped it would be so, and signed his name to the following quotation: "His face was a thanksgiving for his past life and a love letter to all mankind."

When Arthur Fuller, chauffeur for Mr. Johnson, visited the patient Sunday afternoon, he remarked that his employer was still smiling. "Yes, Arthur, I'm dying, but I still have my smile, and I am going to die smiling," replied the former Mayor. And he did.

At an informal reception given last Wednesday, the engagement of Miss Clementine Straasburger to A. J. Barthelme was announced. No plans for the wedding have been made. Miss Straasburger, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clement Straasburger of 2815 Locust avenue, has just returned from an extended tour abroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver L. Garrison Sr. have called 111 Luoma relatives of their late arrival in Yokohama, Japan. Mr. and Mrs. Garrison departed in February for a tour of the world.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis P. Baltinger of South Broadway entertained at cards at their home Monday evening in honor of Mr. Baltinger's birthday. The guests included Messrs. and Mrs. P. H. Milligan, A. J. Nulsen, Adolph May, J. E. Dillon, A. Carpenter, George Smith, A. S. Mann, William E. Lucas, Henry Skeneler, John F. Nangle, Charles D. Potts, A. Dressel, E. Lentz, Alfred Scannell, E. Nangle, M. Gillham, E. O'Donnell, E. H. Martin, J. H. Hall, E. F. Brown, Louis H. Wiener, Thomas McFarland, J. A. Anderson, George Rinkel, H. Strain, H. C. Oyler, O. Orvis, R. Morrison and C. Vastine.

The wedding of Miss Audrey J. Helmers and Frank E. Garity of Rocky Ford, Colo., will take place April 17, at St. Peter's church, Rocky Ford, Colo. The Rev. Father Hennigan will officiate.

PLANTER KILLS BANKER

Friends Disarm Wealthy Man, Who Is Then Shot Down.

SYLVANIA, Ga., April 1.—Escaping unharm, though three loads from a repeating shotgun had been fired at him, C. E. Lee, a planter, fired three pistol bullets into the breast of L. P. Hilton, president of the Screvin County Bank and member of the Sylvania City Council. Hilton was dead in five minutes.

Hilton fired on Lee in the street. Friends disarmed and held him after he fired three times, and then Lee shot him. Lee escaped, but telephoned the Sheriff he was ready to surrender.

ILLINOIS DOCTOR KILLS RIVAL AT HOME OF WOMAN

Mt. Carmel Former Coroner, Democratic Chairman and Newspaper Owner Grapples With Intruder Who Breaks Through Window and in the Struggle, Shoots Him.

CLOTHING IS SET AFIRE BY POWDER

Slayer Who Was No Match for His Foe, Surrenders to Sheriff and Later a Coroner's Jury Hears the Testimony and Exonerates Him

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
MOUNT CARMEL, Ill., April 11.—Drinking through a window to gain entrance to the home of Miss Ruth Moore last night, Asa Dunning, a powerful hunchback, ran into the arms of Dr. J. E. Inskip and in the fight that followed Dunning was shot to death. The woman was the only witness to the fight and was the chief witness at the coroner's inquest called today.

Both men were infuriated with the woman. Dr. Inskip having known her for 10 years. He is a Democratic leader, was Coroner three terms and is now chairman of the Democratic County Committee and chief owner of the Democratic paper here. He is considered wealthy.

Dunning, who was well known over the oil country had recently met Ruth Moore and was paying much attention to her. He returned to Mount Carmel at 9 o'clock last night from Vincennes and went directly to her home in that part of the town known as the River Front.

Breaks Window With Hands.
He knocked, but received no answer. Then he went to a window on the ground floor, broke it in with his hands, tore down the curtain and leaped into the room. Dr. Inskip was just inside the window and he grappled with the intruder.

Dunning was a hunchback of powerful build, famed locally as a fighter. Dr. Inskip, who is 55 years old, found he was no match for Dunning, and as he was being forced backward, he says, he fired one arm enough to draw a revolver from his hip pocket. He forced the weapon up between his body and that of his opponent and fired a shot into Dunning's breast, killing him instantly.

Dunning's flesh was blackened by the powder burns and his clothing was set on fire.

The woman, who had watched the struggle, and saw its termination, poured water on the prostrate body to put out the fire.

Arrested and Is Guarded.
Dr. Inskip immediately went up town, telephoned the Sheriff and Coroner, and went to his own office to await their arrival. He gave himself into custody of the Sheriff, and was allowed to remain in his office through the night, under guard of a deputy.

Dr. Inskip is one of the best-known men in this section of Illinois, both because of his political prominence and his extensive oil holdings. He is married, and came to Mount Carmel from Fairfield, several years ago.

He gave a statement early today to the effect that he had killed Dunning in self-defense, after he had been attacked.

TWO CAPITAL BELLES IN AN AEROPLANE

Cuban Minister's Daughter So Delighted That She Wants a Machine.

By Wire from the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, April 11.—Senator R. Vance, daughter of the Minister from Cuba, and Miss Mabel Wolcott, daughter of the Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, took flights with Henry Jannus in Rex Smith's aeroplane in Potomac Park, Monday afternoon, following the example of Miss Lucille Mariman, daughter of former Gov. Mariman of Minnesota, and Miss Dorothy Williams, sister of Mrs. Joseph Leiter, who went up in the machine last Thursday.

The daily flights in Potomac Park have aroused enthusiasm among the members of the smart set, and it is understood that local millionaires will form a club soon and take lessons in flying.

Former U. S. C. A. Secretary Sentenced.
VICTORIA, B. C., April 11.—Edward Matthew Bywell, who embezzled $3000 from the Empress Hotel in this city while he was employed as an accountant and who recently was captured in New Orleans, where he was acting as a U. S. C. A. secretary, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary.

Champ Clark's Daughter Popular in Capital Set

MISS GENEVIEVE CLARK.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—One of the most attractive and socially interesting debutantes of next season will be Miss Genevieve Clark, daughter of Speaker Clark and Mrs. Champ Clark.

Miss Clark is one of a charming bevy of girls of the congressional circle who came to Washington as children and have gone to school together and who will make their bow to society together.

The daughter of the Speaker is very pretty, and she still preserves the schoolgirl style of dress, for she is scarcely more than sixteen. She is a bookish young lady and speaks several languages fluently.

She is fond of dancing, however, and a ball given by Mrs. Clark this winter was an important figure in the Christmas holiday festivities.

Miss Clark, like her mother, is greatly interested in the Congressional Club, but of course she cannot take any active part in it, as she is still in the school-girl class.

She has an unbounded admiration for her talented father, and takes a great interest in the political issues of the day.

A bonfire was built and the other boys surrounded Eddie and danced about him, constantly closing in and forcing him nearer to the fire. The fringe on his trousers was ignited.

The other boys ran away and Eddie ran to the street. A boy driving a grocery wagon saw him and extinguished the flames by rolling him in a horse blanket.

Eddie has never told who his companions were, and Mrs. De Donato Tuesday said that she has been unable to learn their names.

The boy's right leg was burned its entire length. Though he will recover, the healing process will be slow, Dr. Wilson says.

While Florian de Donato Jr. of 553 North Whittier street is sitting as a member of the jury trying Policeman John J. Nicolay, charged with aiding and counseling embezzlement of Police Relief Funds, he anxiously awaits news from the bedside of his 5-year-old son, Eddie, who was seriously burned while playing Indian.

At every pause in the trial when he has an opportunity to do so, De Donato telephones to his home and inquires as to the boy's condition.

Eddie was burned April 1, and Dr. R. M. Wilson says he must remain in bed another week.

With four older boys, Eddie was playing on a vacant lot near his home. All wore Indian suits. There was a mild battle and Eddie was captured as a hostile brave. He was doomed to be burned at the stake.

Boy Rival of Waddell Credits Catcher With Share in Strikeouts

EARL WALKER, PITCHER.

EARL WALKER, 15-year-old pitcher of the Grant School team of the Post-Dispatch Public School Baseball League, who tied Rube Waddell's major league record for strikeouts in a nine-inning game last Saturday morning against the Shepard School team, never studied the pitcher's art from a book.

His knowledge was acquired in games on corner lots and by listening to older boys who were fortunate enough to have witnessed league games.

Earl is a modest boy and of slight build. When congratulated on his feat he said: "Well, Eddie Hausladen, my catcher, deserves as much credit as I do, and all of the other boys played fine, considering the grounds."

Besides striking out 17 of the opponents, Earl allowed but three safe hits. Two of these were due to the condition of the grounds, a fielder falling over a rock as he was about to catch the ball and the ball taking a bad bound as it neared another player.

As he gave but two bases on balls, five of the Shepard boys reached base during the game. Earl depends on an incurve, delivered underhand after he has thrown outpicks and outshoots. The incurve, which breaks close to the body of the batter, is Earl's emergency delivery.

The Shepard boys were unable to even foul it.

The game between the Oak Hill and Mann School teams, postponed from last Saturday morning, will be played after school hours Wednesday, at Bent and Humphrey streets.

The Chouteau team was awarded its game with the Sherman team when the latter failed to appear at the scheduled grounds by the score of 9 to 0. It was erroneously stated that the Chouteau team failed to put in its appearance.

F. H. Heider, president of the Penrose School Patrons' Association, has written a letter to the Post-Dispatch manager of the league in which he states that he did not buy the uniforms for the Penrose boys, but that they were purchased by the association, and that he only accompanied the boys to the sporting goods store with William A. Roland, another member of the association.

It is thought that the Government will insist that pictures sold from the collection must be sent out of the United States and brought back so that they can be appraised in the customs office.

An effort will be made to obviate this by having the appraising done in the Chicago or New York custom house.

SOROLLA EXHIBIT ANOTHER SUNDAY, IF PLAN SUCCEEDS

Art Museum Directors Wire East for More Time to Let People See Pictures.

SALES ARE EXPECTED

Duty Red Tape May Send Paintings Sold Out of Country to Be Shipped in Again.

Following a suggestion made by the Post-Dispatch, the Directors of the Municipal Art Museum have opened negotiations to continue until next Sunday the exhibition of Joaquín Sorolla y Bastida's remarkable paintings now being shown at the Museum.

As originally planned the exhibition was to have been concluded Wednesday.

"The Post-Dispatch's suggestion was so timely that we decided to act on it at once," said Francis E. A. Curley, curator of the Museum. "The pictures will have been on exhibition three weeks tomorrow, but for the greater part of that time the weather was unfavorable. I am satisfied that if the exhibition can be continued until next Sunday, and the weather is bright on that day, the attendance will be limited only by the capacity of the building."

18,523 See Pictures.
Thus far 18,523 persons have seen the pictures, the largest attendance being last Saturday, when there were 884 visitors to the gallery. Until we get responses to telegrams we have sent to New York, we will not know whether the time of the exhibit here is to be extended."

Several St. Louisans are said to be negotiating for the purchase of pictures in the collection. It is regarded as practically certain that William K. Bixby will buy at least one and that two will be purchased for the museum.

Julia Marlowe, the actress, has purchased one—the much-admired canvas entitled "A Courtyard in Seville."

A meeting of the Board of Directors of the Museum was called for Tuesday afternoon to discuss negotiations for the purchase of several of the pictures.

One point which has delayed several deals is that the pictures were brought into the United States free of duty as works of art intended only for exhibition. The directors have been informed that duty must be paid on all pictures purchased by private individuals, though no tariff need be paid on those purchased for the museum.

It is thought that the Government will insist that pictures sold from the collection must be sent out of the United States and brought back so that they can be appraised in the customs office.

An effort will be made to obviate this by having the appraising done in the Chicago or New York custom house.

HURLED 40 FEET BY LOCOMOTIVE, UNHURT

Cinder Pile Saves William Salg From Serious Injuries by Passenger Engine.

Struck by a Wabash passenger engine in the Terminal yards at Main and Clinton streets Tuesday, William Salg of 3222 McNair avenue was hurled 40 feet through the air, but landed on a cinder pile little hurt.

Serg. Lawton of the North Market Street Police District saw the accident and ran to Salg, thinking he was dead. Salg was stunned but revived in an ambulance and when he arrived at the city hospital it was found that his only injuries were scratches on his hands where they had struck the cinders.

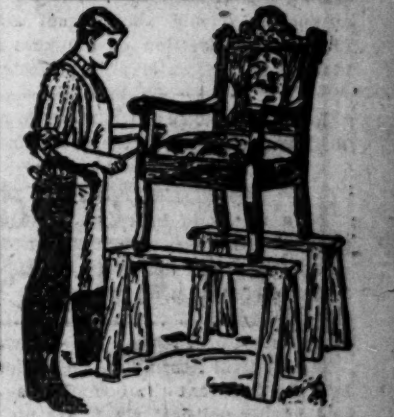

Salg stepped out of the way of a Terminal engine and failed to notice the approach of the passenger train on the track where he sought refuge.

PUNISH FOOD ADULTERATORS.

The warning given by Health Commissioner Bond, through the columns of the Post-Dispatch, against children eating candies colored with poisonous ingredients, is well enough in its way. But the question arises, in view of the Missouri food and drug regulations, why is such candy being sold in St. Louis? Why is not the law enforced in such a way as to make the sale of such illegal, harmful products impossible?

The pure food law of Missouri was passed early in 1907, and at the 1909 session of the Legislature a State Commissioner was provided for, with full powers to test foods, and arrest and prosecute food adulterators or persons offering adulterated foods for sale. Provision was also made for the forfeiture and destruction of such foods and products.

Officials of the Federal Pure Food Bureau have been active of late in the work of confiscating and destroying adulterated food products. But their work is confined to products shipped from state to state. It must be supplemented by the power of the states, in order to prevent frauds arising within the states. The Federal and State authorities should show equal activity in enforcing every section of the pure food laws, so that all the people may be protected.

But if Col. Roosevelt is going to aid in forming a labor party what is the use of forming it?

SOMETHING TO LIVE DOWN.

As a means of hurrying the work of the Supreme Court the new commission of four aids to the justices will doubtless be effective. But as a means of increasing the popular esteem for the court a bipartisan commission will have a handicap to overcome.

The General Assembly, true to form, reduced to law the fear that the commissioners, being men and having political views, are not to be trusted to consider cases only on their legal merits. Nor is the court itself considered capable of divesting probable recommendations from taint or suspicion of partisanship. So we find the commission evenly divided. In the accepted view of affairs bipartisan, each pair of commissioners is charged with the duty of seeing that the other pair doesn't interpret the law according to conflicting partisan notions.

It is unfortunate that the commission comes into existence with such a blight upon it. It seems to be a very good commission. We feel sure that it will prove a surprise to the purblind legislators and be able to live down the stain on its birth.

Tom L. Johnson exchanged a great fortune for enduring fame as a servant of the people.

THE VOICES OF SPRING

The Brotherhood Welfare Association is approaching the period of its annual disorganization. Not even the genius of Dr. James Eads How, the only wealthy hobo in the world, can hold it together much longer. At the last meeting of the Brotherhood the principal speaker was Mrs. Cora D. Harvey, a Kansas City lady, who advocated the seizure by "working people" of mills and factories, under the law of eminent domain, with the purpose of operating them for themselves.

This was a revolutionary suggestion, much more so than the new hobo demands on Congress for legislation shortening the hours of labor and providing free transportation to places where there is work. One of the members, known as "Brother Ryan," endorsed Mrs. Harvey's remarks, but it soon became plain that his heart was not touched by the proposal to seize industrial plants. As a social philosopher and political economist he gave the proposition his intellectual assent, but his adherence was merely academic. Brother Ryan spoke the language of a broader humanity when he announced that one more day of weather like that of last Sunday would see him "on the road" again.

The poet in him awoke, and Mrs. Harvey's law of eminent domain was forgotten when he declared: "I can hear the birds calling me. The grass is getting green and I can not stay in the city." When the birds call to the Brotherhood and the grass invites them to wander, welfare is attained by merely taking to the road again. The problem is solved. It is easy to take an interest in political economy during the dark and dreary days of winter when hillsides and valleys are bleak and bare and no bird sings. But with the coming of the green grass and all the voices of spring, from the humming and droning of myriads of insects to the glad songs of the feathered choir, it becomes impossible to have serious intention of seizing a factory and going to work. Brother Ryan may approve, in theory, of the capture of a mill or a factory, but in practice he would choose the better part, and go where the blackbird and the robin, the red bird and the jay preach the gospel of leisure and the joys of free travel.

THE MAYOR'S DANGER.

The Post-Dispatch does not approve the threat of the labor leaders and several civic organizations to defeat the bond issue for the completion of the free bridge, if Mayor Kreismann does not veto the Southern Illinois Traction bill. Threats and reprisals are not the best means of accomplishing public ends. Often they involve consequences fatal to important public measures.

But no public officer who wants to accomplish desirable public ends or to carry out policies of value to the public and to his own ambitions and purposes can afford to ignore public sentiment. He cannot without danger to his own record, reputation and service overlook any expression of public sentiment with regard to his public course or specific acts. No public servant can afford to defy just public sentiment and the fair demands of the people and hope to retain his usefulness. He must have public support.

This rule applies with special force to Mayor Kreismann at this time. He is favorably considering a bill granting tracks on the free bridge with franchise privileges on certain streets to a private corporation. The terms of the franchise are not satisfactory. They are not in accord with sound public policy in the matter of franchise grants. They tie up the city for 50 years. They may seriously affect the city's control of the municipal free bridge which is being erected for the purpose of relieving St. Louis of the oppressions of a bridge monopoly.

The Mayor is asking the people to pass an amendment to the city charter authorizing the issue of bonds to the amount of $2,500,000 for the completion of the municipal bridge. The completion of the bridge is necessary to the Mayor. His record and reputation as a public officer largely depend upon it.

What the administration may do with reference to the bridge affecting its usefulness as a destroyer of monopoly is of vital importance to the people and what the people may think of the administration's acts concerning the bridge is of vital importance to Mayor Kreismann. Upon the public's confidence in the Mayor's intention to serve nothing but the public interest in dealing with bridge problems depends the power of the Mayor and his administration to complete the bridge and fulfill his pledges. The Mayor would better disappoint ten Japs, Hoves and veto a dozen premature franchise grants of far more importance than the one under consideration than endanger the completion of the free bridge within a reasonable time.

The House Democratic majority has taken the wise course in deciding to pass the reciprocity bill for which the extra session was called, before undertaking other legislation.

THE LORIMER TRAGEDY.

Michael Link, who was indicted for perjury in the Lorimer case and turned State's evidence, was found dead yesterday. Apoplexy had killed him. He had expected death, arranged his affairs for it and warned his friends. There can be little doubt that his connection with the scandal of Lorimer has shortened his life.

It is useless, the attempt to take a light or flip-pant view of this matter. It is a ghastly tragedy of American politics. Link lies dead of it. With the $2500 that he deposited to his credit in Chicago, Holstlaw accepted and must always feel the contempt of those who had respected him as the banker of a little country town. White and Beckmeyer, self-confessed takers of bribes, find their avowal no jest. Brown, who wore the blue belt stuffed with bank bills about his waist, and many Abrahams, the bellwether of the bribers, can scarcely enjoy their public prominence.

Snave, smiling and cynical, the man whose triumph has cost so much and shadowed so many homes still sits in the Senate. He was chosen in Springfield by the mysterious votes of 53 Democrats and only 48 of his own party members. In Washington 23 out of 57 Senators of his party faith voted to deprive him of his seat. That is the title by which he holds. Is it good enough in view of the new testimony brought out at Springfield—for the present Senate?

FACTS FAVORING RECIPROCITY.

The pay roll of the national Government carries 700,000 names. If there are 14,000,000 voters in the United States this comes to one Government employee for every twenty voters. Among the adult men in the country, about one in twenty is supported by the taxpayers. The cost of being governed is so great that politics becomes a primary interest of every thoughtful man.

FACTS FAVORING RECIPROCITY.

Section 2 of Article II of the Constitution, which gives the President power to call extra sessions of Congress, also says that "in case of disagreement between them with respect to the time of adjournment he may adjourn them to such time as he shall think proper." This is one of several latent powers of the Constitution which never have been exercised.

At the beginning of the present session certain sagacious Democrats asserted that, in view of the party's desire to untax food and clothing, it would not be safe to dispose of the Canadian agreement first, for the President would then prorogue Congress and nothing could be done in the way of tariff reform until the regular session. To play politics on the Democratic side it was necessary to assume that the President was already committed to the same policy.

Fortunately for the country, Mr. Taft is not so inclined. He has assured Democratic leaders of his unwillingness to take advantage of them and in a letter to Congressman McCall he is said to have made the promise that in no event will he exercise his prerogative and adjourn the session. An assurance so unusual should extinguish the last suspicion that Democrats may have of his sincerity.

Mr. Taft is intent upon various important measures. He knows that they can be carried to success only by Democratic votes. The Democrats have legislative enterprises of their own, which can prevail only with Republican assistance. If the President were to play politics at this juncture his program would be wrecked. Democratic folly of the same description would be equally fatal. It is a time for reason, good faith and good sense on both sides.

The Democratic caucus should give Canadian reciprocity the right of way. It is not by jockeying, but by generous rivalry in the public service that representatives of either party will gain popular approval at this time.

Mayor Kreismann is in the unique position of a municipal executive who offers an apology for approving an indefensible grant of public privileges to a political benefactor and friend.

It is hardly worth while to treat Judge Sanborn's decision on the power of the states to regulate interstate commerce railroads until the Supreme Court has passed on the question.

Congressman Sulzer says talk of war with Japan does not scare him worth a cent, but then perhaps it is not intended or expected to scare men used to running for Congress.

Pertinent advice is not to eat colored candy eggs; the suggestion that the coloring with poisonous dyes be forbidden or punished is too much to expect.

Rev. Paul H. Linn having revived hell as a terrible reality of the future, Texas has only to moisten its palms and look as supercilious as possible.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The Greek Tongue.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I am a Greek, but I am not of those who celebrated the Independence day on Friday night at Druid's Hall, on account of my business. In the article published by the Post-Dispatch on Saturday last I saw that the speakers were many, among them the Prof. F. A. Hall, teacher of the Greek at Washington University. Mr. Hall, speaking to the Greeks, told the following: "The Greek we teach and use is a mixture of languages we saddle on ourselves, and has no rhyme, reason or meaning." Professor, can you tell me the mixture of the Greek language? I invite you to do that. From time to time I read in the American newspapers many incoherences against the Greek languages and history, but the reason is that this country has not critics of the articles in the newspapers and everybody says what he likes.

An Envious Chicagoan.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
If Chicagoans are permitted to compete, I here-with suggest the following few slogans, anyone of which I believe would be worthy of St. Louis: Not St. Louis but St. Lotus.

HOW A JUDGE SAVED HIMSELF.

From the Bombay Gazette.
An Indian Judge, when first appointed to his position, was not well acquainted with Hindoo law. He was trying a case in which a Hindoo was charged with stealing a "nighal". The Judge did not like to betray his ignorance of what a nighal was, so he said, "Produce the stolen property."

The court was held in an upper room, so the usher gasped: "Please, your lordship, it's downstairs."

"Then bring it up instantly!" sternly ordered the Judge.

The official departed and a minute later a loud bumping was heard, mingled with loud and earnest exhortations. Nearer came the noise, the door was pushed open and the panting official appeared, dragging in the blue bull.

The Judge was dumfounded, but only for an instant.
"Ah! That will do," said he. "It is always best, when possible, for the Judge personally to inspect the stolen property. Remove the stolen property, usher."

HELPS FOR EDITORS.

From the Chicago Journal.
Ready-made "editorials" in opposition to confirmation of the reciprocity agreement are being furnished to some of the newspapers from headquarters of the "interests."

A considerable mass of such matter comes anonymously, purporting to be a "lumberman's protest." It is likely to receive the usual treatment accorded to such maverick productions.
The American Protective Tariff League, New York, takes the editors into its confidence to the extent of asking co-operation in the effort to defeat reciprocity. Further, the league's literary bureau of enlightenment furnishes post cards, which editors are requested to send to their congressmen with urgent pleadings against confirmation of the agreement.

All these and kindred movements intended for the benefit of the trusts are doomed to failure. Reciprocity is the watchword of the present and will be the fact of the near future.

THEY "AUTOGRAPHED."

From the Cleveland Leader.
Senator Dewey went into a hotel in Georgia and said to the clerk: "Where shall I autograph?" "Autograph?" asked the clerk. "Yes, sign my name, you know." "Oh, right here," Senator Dewey signed his name in the register.

In a little while came some Georgia Crackers. One of them advanced to the desk. "Will you autograph?" asked the clerk, with a smile. "Certainly," said the cracker; "mine's rye. What's yours, feller?"

The clerk treated. Then he leaned back and glared at the Senator. Senator Dewey felt sorry for him and was somewhat conscience-stricken. "Too bad," he said. "That is what comes from speaking a foreign language in your own country."

THANK YOU.—Nose wart: Sublimed sulphur, 120 grains; glycerin, 1 fluid dram; acetic acid, 1 fluid dram. Apply repeatedly several days.

L. R.—In case of the death of the beneficiary, insurance money probably goes to the estate of the insured. Otherwise it is paid the beneficiary.

WEBSTER.—As to county tax, outgoing collector must bring suit to enforce payment of all taxes that are delinquent one year at such (outgoing) period.

E. R.—The nostrils join in a common chamber back above the throat. Inhaling in either reaches all sides and each nostril reaches more directly its own side.

B. H.—If you are delinquent in any taxes or owe anything to city or State, your fee will be deducted therefrom. The same applies only to cases in criminal court.

ILLINOISER.—If you signed a contract for the furniture, court would probably hold you to it. If your wages is not more than $1 a week it cannot be garnished in Illinois.

MCNALE.—Judge Murphy sent ten policemen to jail for contempt in having entered his courtroom without laying aside their revolvers. The Court of Appeals reversed the ruling.

R. X.—Draw up proper ordinance and ask the Municipal Assembly to pass it. Or put up a scarecrow or an imitation cat. Owner may be sued for the damage his pigeons have done you.

MRS. WHARTON.—Omitting "born" and "died" from the monument would be an improvement. The inscription as you have written it is hardly understood by anyone of ordinary intelligence.

SUBSCRIBER.—A Lincoln never drank, smoked, chewed tobacco or swore. On a wager he lifted a barrel of whisky and took a swilling out of the bung hole, but not the whisky out.

RUD.—No single work of fiction in English, German, French, Italian, Spanish is generally acknowledged to be the "greatest masterpiece" in any one of these languages. There is much difference of opinion.

A. P.—No such inscription on original Angelus for this painting. The Blenheim Madonna of Raphael is valued at $350,000. Mesdames' $114, $170,000. Last week Rembrandt's Mill was sold for $100,000.

A.—The charge of $5 in matter of taking acknowledgment was very unreasonable and unlawful, even though noted by the county clerk. Same. Lawful charge is $50 an acknowledgment. We cannot see where the extra service comes in, from what you state.

I. X. L.—In reference to the improvements you desire, make an agreement drawn up as to removal; by so doing you will avoid dispute, and as to whether you could remove would depend upon the construction and permanency of the improvement.

H. H.—Dark circle under the eyes may be cured by internal treatment. Consult a physician. Taking a salt water bath every morning, drinking three or four pints of water a day, getting to bed early and bathing the eyes with diluted witch-hazel may work a reformation.

PEARL.—The question of salary for help you mention is for employer to decide and depends upon the work and responsibility of the position, and is also regulated by supply and demand. As between bookkeeper and stenographer we should give the former entitled to the most pay, owing to the responsibility in connection with such a position.

P. H. S.—The founders of the Republic planned to make this country a refuge for the oppressed of all nations; hence it has been the national policy to encourage immigration. Our gratitude is largely due to immigration, which is absolutely necessary to the development of a vast territory. It has given us the brains and muscle and skill of Europe. The State of Texas alone could support more than 50,000,000 people.

A. R.—Hard soap without boiling: Save all scraps of fat, cooked and uncooked; render it out and strain it into a tomato can. Save it until you get four cans full. Four four quart cold water on top of can of caustic soda and let stand over night. In morning strain off water from cans, through a flour bag. Warm the cans of fat, strain through bag into the soda water, stirring briskly all the time. Continue stirring until the mass begins to thicken and get white. Let stand until evening in the vessel in which it was mixed. Then cut after being turned out into bars.

A. F. M.—It would depend upon your agreement to sell. If a warrant deed is given, purchaser should execute a deed of trust to you, and as there is now one on the premises, which purchaser is to assume in part, the same should state that it is subject to a first. Should he fail to pay the monthly notes under the deed, besides, you would be compelled to watch the first mortgage, and make all payments due under same, otherwise holder of first may foreclose and thereby cut out your second, and your security is gone, your only recourse being to sue the party you sold to on the basis of having nothing your money is lost. Giving the purchaser a bond or a warranty deed upon so many monthly installment payments, and providing also therein as to his payment of all sums that become due or mature under the first mortgage, etc., would be more safe.

SPEAKING OF SPIRIT.

Mr. Roosevelt and others have assured us that there is no other Indian warrior quite like the Crow. The Crow, say all these eminent authorities, is the bravest man in a red skin.

Nevertheless, one cannot help liking the spirit of the Kickapoos. Some years ago the Kickapoos, doubling the paternal sincerity of a white father who conspired at the theft of their lands, calmly withdrew from the blessings and benedictions of this republic and located in Mexico. Now we are told that they want to take part in the Mexican war, without caring which side they fight on.

The Kickapoos impress one as being decidedly Homeric.

Even Obvious.

A Marshall negro was locked up the other day for vagrancy. When his case came up his lawyer put on the stand a 400-pound washerwoman who was shown to be the defendant's wife.

Olive Schreiner Has Discovered the "New Man"

He Is as Startling as the "New Woman" and Like Her
Is the Outcome of Changed Conditions and Higher Ideals. A Review for the Post-Dispatch.

By Nixola Greeley-Smith.

THE New Man, male and masculine counterpart of the New Woman, has arrived! Or, rather, he has been with us for some time, but it remained for Olive Schreiner, author of "Woman and Labor," to discover and label him.

The woman who made South Africa famous long before the Boer war made it temporarily the center of international politics, introduces in her new book the improved type which has evolved from the woman's revolt and presents him to her public as the New Man. Here is her definition of him:

"SIDE by side with the New Woman, corresponding to her, as the two sides of a coin cast in one mold, through differing from each other in superficial detail, are yet of one metal, one size and one value, old in the sense in which she is old, being merely the reincarnation of the ancient forms of his race new in the sense in which she is new, in that he is an adaptation to material and social conditions which have no exact counterpart in the past; more diverse from his immediate progenitors than even the woman is from hers; side by side with her today in every society and in every class in which she is found, stands the New Man.

"The sexual and social ideals which dominated the life of the modern woman desire to be, of a laboring and virtuous womanhood, free, strong, fearless and tender. It will probably be found, imaged deeply in the heart of the New Man, engendered there by his own high needs and aspirations."

"WOMAN and Labor" is an exposition of the increasing parasitism of women, as Miss Schreiner sees them, reiteration of the well-known sociological law that a race rises only as its women rise in ethics and understanding, and sinks into degradation as they decay. It is a trumpet call to work and usefulness which the efficient woman has already heard in her own soul and to which the confirmed sex-parasite will turn deaf ears. Yet there is a class of women to whom Miss Schreiner's argument might appeal, women with good brains that they prefer not to use; talents that with a strange mental perversion they consider it undesirable to employ; and who prefer to stuff their ears with outward sentimentality that they may not hear the call to labor. Ulysses and his mariners blunted their hearing with cotton that the sirens' voices might not reach them, but, at least they were defeated in a better cause.

Miss Schreiner shows how woman's ancient occupations are all gone or going. She considers the tasks of women from the time they hoed and planted the fields, while the men fished and hunted, through the palmy days of Greece and Rome, through the Middle Ages, when they spun and wove and baked, to their present era of dwindling usefulness.

Even so late as the day of Martin Luther the welfare of the race depended on unlimited child-bearing of its women that battles of the world might be fought and its physical work accomplished. She shows that more and more the machine has superseded physical labor; brain has displaced brawn, and that the poor woman who bears a dozen or more children today under average conditions is merely giving the State citizens that it does not want, physical workers that it cannot use; in other words, producing fresh recruits for the menacing army of the unemployed.

MISS SCHREINER presents a graphic picture of the female parasite as we have all met her, when she speaks of "the effete wife, clad in lace and raiment, the work of others' fingers; fed on luxurious viands, the result of others' toil; waited on and tended by the labor of others.

"The need for her physical labor having gone," the description goes on, "and mental industry not having taken its place, she bedecked and scented her person or had it bedecked and scented for her, she lay upon her sofa, or drove or was carried out in her vehicle, and, loaded with jewels, she sought by dissipation and amusements to fill up the inordinate blank left by the lack of productive activity. And the hand whitened and the feet softened, and, last, the very duties of motherhood, which were all the constitution of her life left her, became distasteful, and from youth to age her offspring often owed nothing to her personal toil.

"In many cases so complete was her enervation that at last the very joy of giving life, the glory and beauty of a virtuous womanhood, became distasteful; and she sought to evade it, not because of its interference with more imperious duties to those already born of her, or to her society, but because her existence of inactivity had robbed her of all joy in strenuous exertion and endurance in any form."

Whether in France or America or England, or in ancient Greece, Assyria or Rome, this type is essentially one in its results, Miss Schreiner declares. "She is the 'fine lady,' the human female parasite, the most deadly mite which can make its appearance on the surface of any social organism."

Work is all that Miss Schreiner demands for woman, and she is frank enough to admit that the demands of the new woman must be met with opposition from the maudlin molluscs of her own sex and not from man.

THE "young dude" and "the male voluptuary of feeble intellect" are, Miss Schreiner believes, the only types of men that object to woman's economic and social emancipation. The unhappy woman who, dance for gold, sees looming before him, as he slips out his deep disapproval of increased knowledge and the freedom of obtaining the means of subsistence in intellectual fields by woman, and expresses his vast preference for the uncultured ballet girl over all types of cultured and productive laboring womanhood in the universe. A subtle and profound instinct warns him that, with the increased intelligence and economic freedom of woman, he and such as he, might ultimately be left sexually companionless, the undesirable residuum, male old maids of the human race.

"The feeble minded male voluptuary will face social extinction when woman becomes completely emancipated, for he will be no longer able to purchase her through assuming the obligation of her support, the consideration his personality could never win."

THE suggestion that men and women in the same fields of labor will cease to be attractive to one another is met by Miss Schreiner in her concluding chapter.

"The actor often marries the actress," she says, "the male musician the female; the reception room of the literary woman or female painter is found continually frequented by men of her own calling; the woman doctor associates continually with and often marries one of her own confederates; and as women in increasing numbers share the modern fields of labor with men, which have hitherto been apportioned to them alone, the nature and strength of the sympathy arising from common labors will be increasingly clear.

"The sharing by men and women of common labors, necessitating a common culture and therefore common habits of thought and interests, would tend to fill that painful hiatus which arises so continually in modern conjugal life, dividing the man and woman as men and women, first seen of physical attraction which fades and from which springs so large a part of the tragedy of modern conjugal relations."

Reflections of A Bachelor Girl

Written for the Post-Dispatch
By Helen Rowland.

A WOMAN can't keep her illusions and her husband at the same time.

—Now that "toy dogs" and "top apartments" are so fashionable, no doubt every woman who can afford one will soon be wanting to own a "toy husband."

—One reason why a woman's beauty is so variable is that a man always looks at her straight through his digestion.

—In the love game, as in roulette, men play just to PLAY—and then proceed to throw away what they've won without any thought of its value.

—The modern woman with her sense of honor and her sense of humor is as much of an improvement over that "sweet, old-fashioned," whitened sepulchre who didn't know a code from a cat, as the Lusitania over the Fulton steamboat.

—A gentleman is a man who sighs effectively while he loves a woman and lies effectively when he ceases to love her.

—Before marriage a girl spends her time waiting for a possible husband; after marriage for an "impossible" one.

Mr. and Mrs. Jarr

Mr. Jarr Acts as a Sponsor to Genius,
but It Will Never, Never Occur Again

Written for the Post-Dispatch

By Roy L. McCardell.

"LADIES!" began Mr. Dinkston. "And Mr. Jarr," he added as he bowed again at the assembled expectants in Mrs. Stryker's drawing room who were enjoying an afternoon of scandal, Ceylon and cerebellum, "to proceed to consider the 'Grotesques of Goethe' we are fronted first with the entirely engrossing subject of Mephistopheles and Faust—Man and the Evil Spirit, Humanity and its Aura."

"Ah, too true!" murmured Mrs. Hickety, getting in the first evidence of appreciation, while Mrs. Stryker darted a snake-like glance at her.

"It matters not whether we consider the subject analogically, dialogically, rationally or metaphorically," he continued.

"Hear! Hear!" cried Mrs. Stryker, getting in with this neat and ultra English interjection first.

(Wasn't it her own drawing room?) continued the new made savant, getting into the swing of his gibberish. "You just grant me that a part is less than the whole, that two angles of a triangle are in no sense parabolic, though linear, and what we may say of necessity is what is merely assumed, as we might say, a priori, and not proved, peradventure."

Here he paused to drink a sip of water and make a wry face, while Mrs. Stryker nudged Mrs. Jarr and whispered: "This is an education!"

"Very WELL," belittled the acme of erudition, Dinkston, as though, by emphasis, to take the taste of the water out of his mouth. "Very well, the premises being thus admitted, I proceed to observe that the concatenation of self-existence in a reciprocating ratio, naturally—I say, QUITE naturally—brings us to the problematical dialogism which in some measure proves that the essence of spirituality may be referred to as the second assumption. We now reach the dreamy, entrancing cosmic paradox."

"How beautiful!" cried two stout ladies at the same time, while a very thin one cried: "And he makes it all so plain!"

Mr. Jarr, however, was having a suspicious look at the lecturer was, as he mentally expressed it, "stalling." He gripped the bronze statuette and hissed "Get busy!"

"We now come to Faust in his study!" cried the lecturer, getting busy in a hurry. "The moment is fraught with mystic symbolism! Faust in HIS study! Mark you, now the atavistic juxtaposition! The Spirit there"—Mr. Dinkston pointed up as though through the ceiling, all present turned their eyes up, and Mrs. Stryker remarked with a cough above the chandelier, for which she would take the parlor maid to task when the company was gone.

"The Spirit there!" repeated Dinkston. "The ANGELS here!"

Mr. Dinkston brought his right arm down in a straight line toward a portrait in a great deal of oil of Mr.

What Every Husband Knows

The Value of a Little Love

Written for the Post-Dispatch

By Sophie Irene Loeb.

A LITTLE LOVE NOW AND THEN IS RELISHED BY THE BEST OF WOMEN.

This goes without saying, the world over. Love is the heaven that raises the hopes and aspirations of all the creatures that people this round ball of ours. In other words, LOVE IS THE LOAF OF LIFE AND EACH OF US NEEDS A SLICE.

Now, it comes to pass that no heaven is needed in the courting days or in the honeymoon stage. The man is sympathetic, almost automatically, without THINKING about it. If she scratch her poor little finger, why, mercy! It just must be loved well again, so it must! For, isn't it HER little finger? And doesn't it belong to HIM, etc., etc.

But sometimes, brother dear, I am sorry to say that those days are like the snows of last winter. They are gone and with THEM that is good and beautiful. For, mark you, man may LOVE THE HABIT of loving, quite the same as any other habit. He may get into a humdrum existence, careless of the feeling of others; and thus be the real LOSER in the end. Or he may get into the whirlpool of hurried living and FORGET the necessity.

For, to love is a necessity in this pursuit of happiness which we are all engaged in. The little woman may go on day after day doing her DUTY quite as a matter of course and at times she will wonder why life moves on in the SAME groove—why the girlhood days were so happy and the period when she was termed a bride. Why? Because ALL was love then.

But when life adjusts itself to the NEW order and affairs become orderly and quiet in the way they should go, the little love god knocks in vain. There are various reasons.

No matter how EMANCIPATED woman may become—no matter how much she may walk side-by-side with man—no matter how "EQUAL" she may be with man, one thing is certain: SHE MAY NEVER BE THE PURSUER IN THE GAME OF LOVE.

"Oh, but she is, all the time, anyway," I can hear you say. "That is true in a measure. She IS the pursuer both BEFORE and AFTER the fact. She may use all her woman's wiles to attract; and man, dear man, basks in it all and forgives her."

But in the matter of real love making HE must, ever "without end, Amen, TAKE THE INITIATIVE. He must lead. All women with a sense of self-respect cannot but recognize that it is he who decrees the ages. And the experience of the ages teaches that she who side-steps this rule usually awakens to the realization of one or two things. She either loses the object of her seeking or that object is somewhat of a weakling. He is the fellow that is pointed out as "Mary Smith's husband."

On the other hand, he may be the STRONG and of the partnership and may reason as many do, that "a man ought to settle down" after the words of "Will you take this woman?" and that he ought to "cut out the foolishness."

No, you didn't think it was the foolishness in those OTHER days and it is the wise fool who follows his NATURAL bent "as you and I," and does not throttle the call of love after the joyous battle of winning is over.

After all is said and done, in the realm of human fluctuations the winning game is NEVER WON. Happiness is the fleeting phantom whose presence we only realize AFTER he has walked on his way.

The joy in fishing is not in CATCHING the fish, but in the nibble of the bait. The joy of love is not in possession, but in the process of RETAINING that which was sought.

So every husband knows that to KEEP THE FIRE ALIVE he must add the fuel that was willingly given in the early days. Many think that the coals of creature comforts, the balm of beau-

Sayings of Mrs. Solomon

Being Confessions of the 700th Wife, Translated for the Post-Dispatch

By Helen Rowland.

SING now a song of praise unto the OPTIMIST of optimists, oh, my Daughters. Yea, lift up your voices and your hands in admiration of the HERO of heroes, even the man who hath been four times wed and four times divorced.

For, behold, he hath been four times stung—yet he hath not lost hope! He hath been "done" and undone, yet he hath not lost faith! He hath been "sold" and resold, yet he hath not lost charity! He hath looked the clergyman in the EYE four times, and taken an awful CHANCE, yet he hath not lost his childlike enthusiasm!

Lo, many men shall offer yet a kiss for a kiss and a sigh for a sigh, but which one shall offer ye a wedding ring for nothing? Many men shall offer ye wines and expensive sweetmeats, but which one shall offer to pay thy board bills?

Many men shall take a chance at paying thee extravagant compliments, but which one shall take a chance at paying thee ALIMONY for life?

Go to! Why shall ye mock and revile a man because he hath married FOUR women? For the world aboundeth in cowards and egoists who fear to marry even ONE woman. But he that hath escaped from out the bonds of matrimony four times feareth no evil, neither Law, nor woman, nor alimony!

Then give him the fruit of his labors and let his wives praise him. Let him continue to pass his heart around in small portions, like unto fudge, that every woman may have a SAMPLE!

Let him continue to be a Collector of Beauties and a distributor of alimony. For marriage is its OWN punishment, and alimony is its own reward!

Yea, verily, verily, is it not more praiseworthy to have made four women happy for a little while than to have made one woman UNHAPPY for life?

And is not one-quarter of a husband more to be desired than none at all?

Behold, every boy cherisheth the hope that he may some day be PRESIDENT; and unto every woman life offereth this hope; that she may yet become one of this man's wives! SELAH!

How to Keep Eggs Fresh.

TO keep eggs fresh, take an old tin pail and punch numerous holes in its bottom and sides, and after filling it with fresh eggs lower it into a kettle of melted tallow, as hot as it can be without burning one's fingers when thrust into it; then lift the pail out quickly and the melted tallow will flow out, leaving a thin coating on every egg, says World Progress. Remove the eggs from the pail and pack them on their ends in a keg or barrel; place in a cool cellar until wanted for use. Eggs have been kept thus for more than six months. The eggs being so much cooler than the melted tallow, a thin covering of tallow will be formed almost instantly, which will render the shell impervious to the air.

Good for Evil.

TOMMY returned sobbing from school with a very bad black eye. "But I'll pay Billy Blotche off for this in the morning," he said. "No, no," replied the mother, "you must return good for evil. I'll make you a nice jam tart, and you must take it to Billy Blotche and say, 'I told mother how you'd punished me and she says I must return good for evil, so here's a nice tart for you.'"

A Fraud.

THE typical "hayseed" was in town the other day, gazing at a sign board in front of one of the numerous motion picture shows. He looked long and earnestly. In fact, he remained there gazing intently for some minutes at the board with its gayly decorated literature, which depicted the struggles of a hero with the villain to win the love of a "fair one." At last the countryman muttered disgustedly to himself and started away. As he passed a crowd near the entrance of the show they heard him growl: "That there sign says 'Movin' pictures.' I watched it for 15 minutes and the blamed thing never did move."—Louisville Times.

FEEBLE-MINDED YOUTH IS EXECUTED IN HAITI

Shooting Because of a Harangue Causes an Unfavorable Impression.

CAPE HAITIEN, Haiti, April 11.—At daybreak a feeble-minded youth of 22 years paid with his life for the indiscretion of an anti-government utterance. The summary punishment meted out has made an unpleasant impression. The Haitian is described by his friends as irresponsible, while some say his head had been turned by the recent sinister events in the republic. At any rate, his fervor carried him away yesterday afternoon and he harangued a crowd with sentiments distinctly revolutionary. Last night he was arrested and this morning he was shot.

Triplet Interest Governor. MINDEN, Neb., April 11.—Mrs. Chris. Nelson has received a letter from Gov. Aldrich congratulating her upon the recent birth of triplets in the Madsen family.

Away Went the Pimples

Eczema, Carbuncles, Boils, Ulcers, Sores, Cancerous Lumps, Rash, Pimples and All Skin Diseases Quickly Cured by an Astonishing Marvel of Nature.

Cuticley Is Harmless, Odorless, Does Not Stain Skin or Clothing—Try It and Be Cured.

It Certainly Is Wonderful What Cuticley Will Do.

There comes from Mexico a most remarkable dry powder called Cuticley. It is a pure and natural substance mined in the deep earth.

Dr. G. F. S., a well-known physician in Chihuahua, Mex., cured a pustular eczema with four applications. He had suffered from it for years with it on a case of erysipelas.

S. A. of El Paso, Tex., cured ringworms which his son had on his head. Jacob P., Chicago, almost instantly cured eczema and a bad case of pimples on the face from which he had suffered for a long time. All who try Cuticley are simply astonished.

Eczema, boils, wounds, ulcers, salt rheum, any skin disease, any eruption of the face, hands, scalp or body, Cuticley cures quickly; relief is instant.

Theo. L., Chicago, says: "My hands, arms, legs and feet were raw with eczema; in 15 minutes all pain was gone; in two days I was cured."

These cases are impressive. The actual sores disappear and you know there is something remarkable in Cuticley. The powder is pure—nothing added, nothing taken from it—being put up just as it is taken from the earth. You will be overjoyed to find how quickly it relieves all sensation of soreness and you will be astonished to notice how quickly it heals and cures the worst and ugliest sore, ulcer, carbuncle or eruption.

You can get a package of Cuticley at any drug store for 25 cents, or will be mailed upon receipt of price. If you wish to first demonstrate what the wonderful Cuticley will do, send your druggist's name and 5 cents in stamps to pay cost of packing, etc., we will mail you a large trial package. The Cuticley Co., Chicago, Ill.

It is sold and highly recommended in St. Louis by all druggists.

DOGS DROP DEAD AFTER WINNING SIX PRIZES AT SHOW

Owner of Prince Elcho and Princess Maude Says They Were Poisoned.

FINDS PILL IN KENNEL

Setters. Valued at $1000 Had Won Fifty Awards at Many Exhibitions.

Prince Elcho and Princess Maude, Gordon setters that took six ribbons in the dog show last week, died suddenly at the home of their owner Friday morning, the day after the show closed.

The owner, Mrs. William F. Frain, 2630 Slattery street, thinks the dogs were poisoned, and blames envious neighbors. She kept their death a secret until Tuesday, because she said she didn't want the "murderers" who had the satisfaction of knowing how heartbroken she was. The setters had won more than 50 exhibition prizes, and she valued them at $600 each.

Friday, at 7 a. m., she took the dogs to the kitchen for a breakfast of bread soaked in coffee and milk. Until then both dogs had appeared to be in the best of spirits. While Mrs. Frain was busy at the stove, preparing the coffee, she heard a thud, she said, and looking around, saw Princess Maude lying on the floor dead, while her companion sniffed wonderingly. Prince Elcho died in the same way 15 minutes later.

In talking Tuesday of the death of her pets Mrs. Frain was in tears. "My husband, who is a mail carrier, and I decided to keep their death a secret," she said, "so we put the bodies in a box and shipped them to my brother-in-law, Thomas Frain, in Sulphur Springs, Mo., asking him to bury them there."

An examination of the run occupied by the setters brought to light a small white pill, which Mrs. Frain will have analyzed. She thinks it is one of several that were thrown to the dogs, and that they swallowed the others.

Mrs. Irene Barfield Files Cross Bill to Husband's Suit Saying She Was Deserted.

Mrs. Irene Barfield filed a cross-bill in Judge Allen's Court Tuesday morning in which she tells her side of trouble with her husband, Stephen Barfield, a traveling salesman, who sued her for divorce last February. Mrs. Barfield is represented by Attorney George Barnett and the husband by C. Porter Johnson.

Mrs. Barfield says she was forced to leave her husband on account of his misconduct and because he failed to support her. As to the misconduct she says he has been drinking to excess for seven years and has been an inmate of institutions for treatment 14 times. Mrs. Barfield says she was too poor to ask her father, who lives in Sedalia, Mo., for help until forced to do so.

Before appealing to her father she sold several articles of furniture to buy necessities for herself and her three boys, George Barnett, 3; Stephen, 7, and John Ramsey, 2 years old. Once she says while boarding at the Berlin Hotel her husband did not pay their bills and she was forced to send for her father to settle with the hotel so she could take her personal effects away.

STAIRS COLLAPSE UNDER A FIREMAN

Lieut. Brenner Cut and Bruised, but Remains on Duty at Fire.

Lieut. Frank Brenner of Truck No. 38 was injured at 2 a. m. Tuesday when a stairway collapsed under his weight as he was going to the second floor of a burning building at 334 Morganford road. Though cut and bruised, he remained on duty.

The upper portion of the building was vacant and the lower floor was used as a company store by the Parker-Russell Mining and Manufacturing Co. Rats gnawing matches are believed to have caused the blaze. The damage is estimated at $1500.

BILL'S LOSS A MYSTERY

Enrolling Clerk Cooper Never Got Drainage Measure.

R. V. Cooper, who was enrolling clerk of the Missouri Senate at the last session of the Legislature, told a Post-Dispatch reporter Tuesday that he had carefully examined his records to ascertain whether Senate bill 361, which was passed by both the House and Senate, but was never enrolled, was misplaced or lost through any carelessness of his department. He said his records show that he never received the bill for enrollment.

The bill revised the drainage laws affecting Southwest Missouri, and was lost because of the failure to enroll it. Cooper lives in St. Louis.

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that receives and publishes news gathered by the Associated Press.

Special Guard for Boy Slayer.

NACODOCHES, Tex., April 11.—Because of ill feeling among the older members of the two families many special officers have been sworn in by Circuit Judge Perkins to prevent disorder and to protect Howard Wetherbee, 13 years old, during his trial for the killing of his schoolmate, Ross Luchicum.

Wife Seeks Husband in St. Louis.

Mrs. Martha Martin of Chillicothe, Mo., has appealed to the Post-Dispatch for assistance in finding her husband, George Martin. She believes he is living with his parent in St. Louis and says that he wrote to her up to last September, but since that time she has heard nothing of him. His home was in Keyteville, Mo., before he came here with his parents.

Medical Society Meeting.

The St. Louis Society of Medical Research will meet at the Hotel Marquette Tuesday evening. Dr. L. M. Ottery will read a paper on "Medical Legislation" and will take issue with Dr. W. W. Boyd on the $20,000 hospital bill appropriation which Dr. Boyd espouses and which Mayor Krelsman wishes to veto. Dr. G. O. Hulick of East St. Louis will present a case of pellagra.

"The Message of Environment."

Dr. George B. Mangold of Washington University will lecture Thursday evening in the auditorium of the Soudard Branch Library, Seventh and Soudard streets, on "The Message of Environment." A musical program will be rendered by pupils of Strassberger's Conservatory. The entertainment will be given by the South Side Self-Culture Club and will be free.

LISTEN! CITIZENS OF ST. LOUIS! DO YOU REALIZE:

- 1—That the chief drawback to St. Louis is the smoke!
- 2—That the enormous area which the city covers is largely due to its residents trying to get beyond the smoke zone, leaving the middle of the town looking like a "Deserted Village!"
- 3—That this exodus has necessitated miles of streets, increasing immensely the Burden of Taxation!
- 4—That the smoke hangs like a blanket over St. Louis, holding down the dampness and giving rise to Unsanitary and Disease-Breeding Conditions!

A large community has a common interest, the welfare of one being the welfare of all!! Join with us and help make St. Louis a clean city!

If you do not belong to our organization, please send a quarter with your name and address to Mrs. H. L. King, 1214 Blackstone Avenue. Hoping to secure your vigorous support we beg to remain,

Respectfully yours,
THE EXECUTIVE BOARD,

Women's Organization for Smoke Abatement.

THE FACTORIES WHICH DO BUSINESS WITHOUT SMOKE SAVE MONEY AND ADVERTISE THEMSELVES.

SMOKE CAN BE ABATED

WELL-KNOWN AND EFFICIENT DEVICES ARE TO BE HAD WHICH RENDER EVERY FACTORY PRACTICALLY SMOKELESS.

Why Smoke Should Be Abated:

Smoke means waste of fuel and waste of energy. Smoke is a mark of domestic and industrial stupidity. Pneumonia is 50 per cent greater in smoke-laden air than in pure air. Tuberculosis, Diphtheria, Bronchitis and many other diseases are much more prevalent in St. Louis than in cities with purer air. ST. LOUIS SPENT MILLIONS TO PURIFY THE WATER. PURE AIR IS JUST AS IMPORTANT AND WILL COST LESS.

Warm Water, Nature's Most Efficient Curative

VERY few men or women of the present day appreciate the value of warm water in curing and preventing disease. To be sure, they bathe externally, but—the instant that illness effects them they resort to drugs to restore their normal condition. There is a safer and saner way to treat illness than by poisoning the system with medicine, and that is—internal bathing.

Most diseases are caused by constipation—the colon becomes clogged with accumulated waste—the delicate organs of the body cannot perform their functions and disease results. Now the "J. B. L. Cascade," removes the effect by taking away the cause. By this perfect method warm water, rendered antiseptic, is introduced and the colon perfectly cleansed and kept pure. The waste matter and poisons that menace the body are eliminated—the system becomes normal. There is no violence in this process—it is as simple as the external bath. The efficiency of the internal bath is not only being proven day by day but has been of enormous benefit to thousands of men and women for years, and it is essential that every one should be informed of a remedy so practical and revolutionary in its accomplishments.

The "J. B. L. Cascade" treatment is extraordinary. We do more than merely sell you the appliance for administering the bath. With every Cascade sold, we include a certificate for free consultation, either personally, or by mail, a copy of our famous book, "The Royal Road to Health," and one year's subscription to the modern up-to-date magazine "Health." All these things are essential; the consultation because we realize that most cases differ and demand individual attention—the book because it explains in detail the cause and treatment of nearly every disease that afflicts modern men and women—and the magazine because it keeps you fully posted and up-to-date on matters pertaining to hygiene. Call upon your own druggist, or any one of the firms mentioned in this advertisement, to-day. Get one of these "Cascades." Take it home and by a practical demonstration prove to yourself its merits. Don't let this slip your mind. Do it now and be sure that the "Cascade" you buy bears our trade mark. That is an absolute guarantee of quality and workmanship. Our book "The Royal Road to Health," will prove of vital interest to you. It's free for the asking. Send for it to-day.

is simply the result of a run-down, nervous condition—due to the excessive strain under which people today are living. To prevent despondency the nerves and body must be in a healthy, vigorous condition. You must cure indigestion, sleeplessness, insomnia and other nervous diseases. For more than 50 years one of the greatest tonic stimulants known to medical science, has been an unfailing remedy for nervous troubles of every sort, building up the body and restoring the tissues to their naturally healthy condition. For overworked men, delicate women and sickly children it is a guarantee of health and happiness. Makes the old feel young and keeps the young strong and vigorous.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is the only whiskey that was taxed by the Government as a medicine during the Spanish-American war.

ABOUT THE MOUTH AND TEETH. The mouth is the prime factor of beauty and the most expressive feature of the human countenance. The whole face loses its charm if the mouth exhibits a lot of decayed, unsightly teeth. You can keep your countenance beautiful if your teeth are properly cared for. "Tooth pullers" will destroy the beauty of the teeth, but a reliable dentist will improve your looks by having your teeth instead of destroying them.

It would seem that everyone would want nothing but the best in dentistry, but many people will sacrifice quality for low price and in the end the work is no good.

DUEVENS PAY IN $1,200,000 FOR CUSTOMS FRAUDS

Art Importers Make Big Settlement Which Will Not Affect Criminal Cases.

DEAL IS FORCED THROUGH

London Bankers Formulated Plan So Firm Could Collect Outstanding Bills.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, April 11.—Duven brothers, art dealers of New York, London and Paris, deposited $1,200,000 last Saturday, through fiscal agents, to the United States Subtreasury in this city. This great sum in currency was turned over to George S. Terry, Assistant Treasurer of the United States, in full settlement of the claims against the Duvenens for customs undervaluations.

But the payment of this—the largest sum ever given to reimburse Uncle Sam for customs frauds, save the $2,576,000 by the Sugar Trust—will have absolutely no effect on the criminal actions pending against two members of the firm.

Henry J. Duveen, art collector for J. Pierpont Morgan and other American multimillionaires, and his nephew, Benjamin Duveen, will be placed on trial, charged with criminally defrauding the Government.

How Deal Was Arranged.
Just how the Duvenens were spurred into making the $1,200,000 settlement became known today. British bankers, who have financed the house of Duveen in its operations, demanded that the bills owing to the firm in the United States, totaling between $1,000,000 and $4,000,000, be liquidated. Naturally this could not be done while the firm's imports were in danger of seizure.

The $1,200,000 was supplied by the British bankers, so that with a settlement of the civil actions against the firm, immediate steps could be taken to force American customers to pay bills due to the Duvenens but unpaid because of the Federal raids. Hundreds of other persons of wealth are on the firm's list.

Informers to Be Paid.
A big reward probably will be paid to the person who first gave Collector Louis Langbein evidence of the vast extent of the Duvenen frauds. His identity has not been made public.

While this man will not receive as much as $100,000, paid to Richard Parr, who uncovered the underweighting frauds practiced by the Sugar Trust, it is understood the Secretary of the Treasury may grant $50,000 to the Duveen informer. It will be paid on the theory that without this information the Government would have been unable to uncover the undervaluations.

INQUEST DELAYS CHILD'S FUNERAL

It Is Believed That Arsenic in Dye of Colored Easter Egg Caused Death.

The funeral of 6-year-old Clarabelle Barnes of East St. Louis, who died Monday after eating a candy Easter egg, probably will be postponed to give time for an autopsy and inquest. Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Barnes of 1625 Belmont avenue, her parents, set the funeral for Wednesday afternoon, but concluded later that they wanted to be sure what caused the death. Dr. Francis Kirsch, the attending physician, says it was arsenic in the egg dye.

Coroner Twitchell said he would order an autopsy.

Mrs. J. A. Weber, sister of Clarabelle, bought some more of the eggs from the 10-cent store where she got the first supply, and will have them tested chemically. Mrs. Barnes burned what was left in her home after Clarabelle became ill.

CONTRACTOR KICKED TO DEATH BY HORSE

Animal Evidently Became Frightened and Ran Away With Owner.

Pinioned beneath a horse at the bottom of a ditch near Macklind and Bluff off avenues, Alonzo Kincaid was kicked to death by the frightened animal.

Kincaid was a building contractor, and lived at Madisonville, St. Louis County. He visited William Strenguboy of 213 Sublette avenue and stayed home in his buggy at nightfall, after saying that he would feel safer if he had a more experienced and a tamer horse. Strenguboy urged him to spend the night at his home, but Kincaid said his family might worry.

It is believed the young and skittish, the buggy horse was frightened by an automobile and ran into the ditch.

Fred W. Stecher of 542 Bischoff avenue heard the noise of beating hoofs near his home at 9 p. m.

He found the wrecked buggy and a little further on the struggling horse. Near the animal lay Kincaid, dead. The horse, in his struggle to extricate himself, had broken nearly every bone in his owner's body. Kincaid was 32 years old and had a large family.
